

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Commonly Used Acronyms	xi

Part I Introductions: The Stories We Tell and Why

1	Introducing Our Relatives and Introducing the Story	1
2	Stories from Indian Country	11
3	Whose Rights? Whose Justice?: Reproductive Oppression, Reproductive Justice, and the Reproductive Body	26

Part II Tracing the Ruling Relations: Health Care, the Reproductive Body, and Native America

4	The Ruling Relations of Reproductive Health Care	39
5	Producing the Double Discourse: The History and Politics of Native-US Relations and Imperialist Medicine	51
6	“To Uphold the Federal Government’s Obligations . . . and to Honor and Protect”: The Double Discourse of the Indian Health Service	68

Part III Consequences of the Double Discourse: Native Women's Experiences with the Indian Health Service

- 7 Resistance and Accommodation: Negotiating Prenatal Care and Childbirth 91
- 8 One in Three: Violence against Native Women 105
- 9 Genocidal Consequences: Contraception, Sterilization, and Abortion in the Fourth-World Context 119

Part IV Reproductive Justice for Native Women

- 10 Community Knowledge, Community Capital, and Cultural Safety 137
- 11 Conclusions: Native Women in the Center 152
- Appendix A: Methods and Methodologies 159
- Appendix B: A Brief Chronology of Federal Actions Affecting Native Health Care 171
- References 175
- Index 193