

CONTENTS

	Introduction: On History, Historians, and Transitional Justice	1
	NANCI ADLER
	PART I: THE COMPLEX RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN TRUTH AND JUSTICE
1	Swinging the Pendulum: Fin-de-Siècle Historians in the Courts	21
	VLADIMIR PETROVIĆ
2	Time, Justice, and Human Rights: Statutory Limitation on the Right to Truth?	37
	WILLIAM A. SCHABAS
3	How Truth Recovery Can Benefit from a Conditional Amnesty	56
	JEREMY SARKIN
4	New Epistemologies for Confronting International Crimes: Developing the Information, Dialogue, and Process (IDP) Approach to Transitional Justice	75
	STEPHAN PARMENTIER, MINA RAUSCHENBACH, AND MAARTEN VAN CRAEN
	PART II: THE NARRATIVE OF THE TRIAL RECORD
5	The Spark for Genocide? Propaganda and Historical Narratives at International Criminal Tribunals	97
	RICHARD ASHBY WILSON
6	The International Criminal Trial Record as Historical Source	118
	THIJS B. BOUWKNEGT

PART III: THE AFTERLIFE OF TRANSITIONAL
JUSTICE PROCESSES

7	Narrating (In)Justice in the Form of a Reparation Claim: Bottom-Up Reflections on a Postcolonial Setting— The Rawagede Case	149
	NICOLE L. IMMLER
8	Collective and Competitive Victimhood as Identity in the Former Yugoslavia	175
	CHRISTIAN AXBOE NIELSEN
9	Perpetrator-Victims: How Universal Victimhood in Cambodia Impacts Transitional Justice Measures	194
	TIMOTHY WILLIAMS
10	Collective Crimes, Collective Memory, and Transitional Justice in Bangladesh	213
	KJELL ANDERSON
	Acknowledgments	237
	Notes on Contributors	239
	Index	243

UNDERSTANDING THE AGE OF TRANSITIONAL JUSTICE

