

Contents

Introduction	1
PART ONE THE REPRESENTATION OF LIFE
1 Introductory	25
2 Can Life Be Given a Real Definition?	33
3 The Representation of the Living Individual	49
4 The Representation of the Life-Form Itself	63
PART TWO NAIVE ACTION THEORY
5 Introductory	85
6 Types of Practical Explanation	97
7 Naive Explanation of Action	106
8 Action and Time	120
PART THREE PRACTICAL GENERALITY
9 Two Tendencies in Practical Philosophy	149
10 Practices and Dispositions as Sources of the Goodness of Individual Actions	167

11	Practice and Disposition as Sources of Individual Action	192
	Acknowledgments	213
	Index	215

Life and Action

