

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements [ix]

INTRODUCTION

Serials, Sequels, and Adaptations in Early-Twentieth-Century
Canada [1]

PART ONE

NELLIE L. MCCLUNG AND THE PEARLIE WATSON TRILOGY [33]

- 1 Sowing the Seeds for McClung's First Novel [36]
- 2 Serialization as Marketing Strategy [53]
- 3 McClung's Second Chances [66]
- 4 Changing Popular and Critical Responses [86]
- 5 Sequel (Non)Recognition = (Non)Adaptation? [94]

PART TWO

L.M. MONTGOMERY, ANNE, AND OTHER SEQUEL HEROINES [105]

- 1 Beginning the Cycle: Montgomery's First Serials and Sequels [108]
- 2 New and Old Continuing Stories: The "Teen" Years [138]
- 3 Anne and Emily of Somewhere Else: More Sequels and Serials [150]
- 4 Anne Grows Up: The Sequel as Bildungsroman [163]
- 5 Love for and Criticism of the Red-Headed Girl [168]
- 6 Adapting and Internationalizing Anne [185]

PART THREE

MAZO DE LA ROCHE AND THE WHITEOAKS OF JALNA [217]

- 1 From Magazine Short Stories to Magazine Novels [220]
- 2 Beyond the Trilogy: The Serial–Sequel Continuum [241]
- 3 More Non-Jalna Novels, and New Jalna Prequels and Sequels [255]
- 4 From Acclaimed Contest Winner to "Outside the Range of Literary Criteria" [274]
- 5 The Whiteoaks of Hollywood – les Whiteoak de Paris [296]

CONCLUSION

The Next Instalment [325]

List of Abbreviations [331]

Notes [333]

Works Cited [365]

Index [399]