While working on this volume, we were occasionally surprised by how much could be accomplished with practically no other resources than the strength of our commitment to each other and to our common vision of a more inclusive world. With this in mind, we were inspired by and grateful for the perseverance with which our authors stuck to our book as we rode the emotional roller coaster of the protracted and all-embracing corona times. Our desire for this volume to see the light of the day and the strength of our belief in the importance of writing ultimately prevailed over the innumerable – and sometimes particularly taxing – vicissitudes that we lived in the course of the last three years.

We would also like to thank our reviewers for supporting our proposal, as well as Shannon Kneis and Anna Richardson, our editors at Bristol University Press/Policy Press, and Annie Rose of Newgen Publishing UK, for accompanying us with patience and generosity through the production process.
