

A Note on the Appendix, Quotations, and Translations

The Appendix comprises descriptions of and references to the Temple of Night in texts written between 1799 and 1894, all in their original languages, and with the original pagination indicated in square brackets. I have quoted from these texts in English translation, always identifying the source's title or author so that anyone who wishes to consult a passage in the original language can do so by turning to the Appendix. I have made all translations except those specifically attributed to others.

