

Acknowledgments

Dr. Whitfield J. Bell, Jr., then American Philosophical Society Librarian, planted the idea of this book and for twenty-five years patiently cultivated it. As an editor of The Papers of Benjamin Franklin, he wrote one of the footnotes about Collinson: "His penmanship was loose and careless, and his capitalization and punctuation are the despair of the transcriber who must divine what he produced and meant." (Franklin III, 116)

Gina Douglas, librarian and archivist at the Linnean Society of London, helped with transcribing and annotating the letters to Linnaeus, tracked down other letters, researched obscure references and ran down innumerable queries. Mr. G.D.R. Bridson, bibliographer and researcher with the Hunt Institute for Botanical Documentation, Pittsburgh, read the manuscript, made suggestions, and suggested the illustrations. Mr. R.G.C. Desmond, historian, formerly librarian, Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew, offered suggestions, technical and editorial advice, and filled many gaps, as did Dr. John Edmondson, Curator of Botany, Liverpool Museum, Liverpool. The late Edmund and Dorothy Berkeley of Charlottesville, Virginia, helped select as most representative the letters to Bartram included here. The late Joseph and Nesta Ewan, formerly of the Missouri Botanical Garden, St. Louis, and Professor George Frick, of the University of Delaware, Newark, furnished leads and bibliographic support. The American Philosophical Society of Philadelphia supported my work as one of its Library Research Associates and financed it with generous grants from its Michaux Fund. In compliance with the terms of the grant a file of the letters I found (with transcriptions) has been deposited with the American Philosophical Society.

Lady Jean O'Neill, of Lymington, England, author (with Mrs. Elizabeth P. McLean, Garden Historian, Philadelphia) of a forthcoming biography of Peter Collinson, has been my partner in locating and selecting letters. She provided information about Collinson's life and helped with the notes. Her discovery of Collinson's annotated copies of several editions of Philip Miller's Gardeners Dictionary at the National Library of Wales has proved very useful. Elizabeth McLean also contributed plant identifications, answered many questions and offered a number of valuable suggestions.

Many people helped the project along: Edward C. Carter II, Librarian, Roy T. Goodman, Assistant Librarian, Beth Carroll-Horrocks, formerly Manuscripts Librarian, Robert S. Cox, current Manuscripts Librarian, Stephen Catlett and Murphy D. Smith of the American Philosophical Society Library; Martin Antonetti, Curator of Rare Books, and Karen V. Kulik, Associate Curator, Smith College; Peter D. Hingley, Librarian, Royal Astronomical Society, London; the late Edwin Wolf 2nd, then Librarian, John Van Horne, current Librarian, Ms. Wendy Woloson, Bibliographer, and Ms. Erika Piola, Curatorial Assistant, the Library Company of Philadelphia; Dr. R.W. Kiger, Director; Dr. James White, Curator of Art and Principal Research Scholar, Ms. Anita Karg, then Manuscript Librarian; Miss B. G. Callery, then Librarian, Ms. Charlotte Tancin, Librarian, Mr. Michael T. Steiber, then Archivist, Hunt Institute for Botanical Documentation, Pittsburgh; The Right Honorable The Earl of Derby and Mrs. Amanda Askari, Keeper of Collections, Knowsley Hall, Prescott, Merseyside, England; Edwin Bronner, retired librarian, the late Michael Freedman, librarian, Barbara Curtis, and the late Miriam Jones Brown of the Haverford College Library; James E. Mooney, first as director of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and later as librarian, The New-York Historical Society; Isabel Kendrick, research assistant, The Royal Commission on Historical Manuscripts, London; G.R.D. Allen of the Royal Society for Encouragement of Arts and Manufactures, London; Porter Aichle, then of Bryn Mawr College; Peter Parker, formerly director of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania; E. Charles Nelson, formerly of the National Botanic Garden, Dublin; H. J. McArdle, librarian, Botany School, Oxford University; the late Ralph Sargent, Gummere Professor of English at Haverford College; C. Helen Brock and Peter I. Gautrey, Cambridge University; Dr. Grenville Lucas, OBE, formerly Deputy Director and Keeper of the Herbarium and Library, Ms. Sylvia M. D. FitzGerald, formerly chief librarian and archivist, Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew; Albert E. Sanders, curator of Natural Sciences, The Charleston Museum, Charleston, South Carolina; the late Anna Wells Rutledge, Charleston; Dr. David Moltke-Hansen, director, and Margaretta P. Childs, field archivist, South Carolina Historical Society, Charleston, South Carolina; Roy A. Rauschenberg, Ohio University, Athens, Ohio; the late Edmund and Martha Bray, formerly associated with The Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia; the late Charles van Ravenswaay of Wilmington, Delaware; R. M. Peck and Thomas Peter Bennett formerly of the Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia; Hugh S. Torrens, Department of Geology, University of Keele; Judith M. Diment, formerly Botany Librarian, Dr. Malcolm Beasley, Botany Librarian, Judith Magee, Assistant Botany Librarian, and Julie M.V. Harvey, Entomology Librarian, The Natural History Museum, London; Amy R.W. Meyers, curator of American art, and Carrie Haslett, Research Associate, The Huntington Library, San Marino, CA; and the staffs of Friends Reference Library, London, The Wellcome Institute Library, and the Royal Society, London.

R. Barry Borden of LMA Group, Merion, Pennsylvania, gave valuable computer advice; Angelene Zarnowsky of Philadelphia and Susan Grant of Ardmore, Pennsylvania patiently managed corrections and notes; and William T. Windsor, of Media, Pennsylvania compared the editor's transcriptions to xeroxed copies of Collinson's letters. Mary Anne Hines of Gibbsboro, New Jersey checked the notes, filled in holes, and prepared the indexes.

Special thanks to Carole LeFaivre-Rochester, Editor emeritus, Mary McDonald, Editor, the American Philosophical Society, and to Adrianne Onderdonk Dudden, the book's designer.

Sarracenia (and Frog). Mark Catesby. From Collinson's copy of Natural History of Carolina, Florida and The Bahama Islands. 2 vols. London, 1730–1747 at Knowsley Hall, Vol. II, plate 69. Courtesy of the Earl of Derby, Knowsley.