

Notes On Contributors

Anthony F. Aveni is Russell B. Colgate of Astronomy and Anthropology at Colgate University. Originally trained in Astronomy (Ph.D. University of Arizona), since 1970 he has confined his research interests to the astronomies of PreColumbian Mesoamerica and Peru, a subject in which he has authored/edited several texts.

Persis B. Clarkson is Research Associate at the Athabasca University, Alberta, Canada, having completed her Ph.D. Dissertation on the surface archaeology of the Nazca pampa in 1985 at Calgary University.

Gary Urton, Associate Professor of Anthropology at Colgate University (Ph.D. University of Illinois) has done ethnographic work in highland and coastal Peruvian communities. He is the author/editor of both texts and articles on ethno-astronomy, calendrics, and symbolism of contemporary Andean cultures.

Helaine Silverman is Visiting Assistant Professor at the University of Illinois Institute of Latin American Studies, having completed her Ph.D. in Archaeology at the University of Texas (1986).

Clive L. N. Ruggles is Lecturer in the Computing Studies Unit of Leicester University (England). His original training is in astronomy (Ph.D., University of Oxford) and in the past ten years he has published numerous articles in the field of British Megalithic astronomy. He edits the British Journal Archaeoastronomy.

Gerald W. Johnson is Professor in the Department of Civil and Mineral Engineering, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55455.

Douglas E. Meisner has been Vice-President of Interscan, 430 First Avenue North, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55401 and was formerly with the Remote Sensing Lab, University of Minnesota.

Mr. William L. Johnson is Technical Specialist in the Faculty of Forest Engineering, State University of New York, College of Environmental Science and Forestry, Syracuse, New York 13210 and was formerly with the Remote Sensing Laboratory, University of Minnesota.

