

---

Contents

---

	Acknowledgments	xi
	Introduction	1
	Richard B. Freeman, Birgitta Swedenborg, and Robert Topel
1.	Searching for Optimal Inequality/Incentives	25
	Anders Björklund and Richard B. Freeman
2.	Policies Affecting Work Patterns and Labor Income for Women	57
	Ann-Sofie Kolm and Edward P. Lazear
3.	Wage Determination and Employment in Sweden Since the Early 1990s: Wage Formation in a New Setting	83
	Peter Fredriksson and Robert Topel
4.	Labor Supply, Tax Base, and Public Policy in Sweden	127
	Thomas Aronsson and James R. Walker
5.	Did Active Labor Market Policies Help Sweden Rebound from the Depression of the Early 1990s?	159
	Anders Forslund and Alan Krueger
6.	How Sweden's Unemployment Became More Like Europe's	189
	Lars Ljungqvist and Thomas J. Sargent

7.	Economic Performance and Market Work Activity in Sweden after the Crisis of the Early 1990s	225
	Steven J. Davis and Magnus Henrekson
8.	Competition, Regulation, and the Role of Local Government Policies in Swedish Markets	253
	Stefan Fölster and Sam Peltzman
9.	What Have Changes to the Global Markets for Goods and Services Done to the Viability of the Swedish Welfare State?	285
	Edward E. Leamer
	Contributors	327
	Author Index	329
	Subject Index	333

---

This volume is dedicated to our late friend and colleague Sherwin Rosen, who contributed greatly to our original study and whose insights on the Swedish recovery from crisis we sadly miss.

