

---

Acknowledgments

---

The chapters in this volume were presented at a National Bureau of Economic Research (NBER) Conference held at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge on November 10 and 11, 2008. We are grateful to Martin Feldstein, former president of the NBER, for encouraging the NBER Health Economics Program to hold a conference on economic aspects of obesity and for his assistance in helping us to fund the conference. We also are grateful to James Poterba, current president of the NBER, for his assistance in publishing the volume.

Major funding for the conference and the publication of the volume were provided by grant number 62026 from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation to the NBER. We owe a large debt of gratitude to the foundation. We want to thank Tracy Orleans, a distinguished fellow and senior scientist at RWJF, and especially Laura Leviton, a special advisor for evaluation at the foundation, for guiding the proposal through the funding process. Laura provided outstanding advice, persevered through a constant stream of e-mail messages, and always responded to them in a prompt manner. In addition, she made penetrating comments on preliminary versions of the chapters presented at a preconference held at the NBER Cambridge, Massachusetts, office on April 25, 2008.

Meals and lodging for the Baton Rouge conference were funded by a grant from the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Foundation of Louisiana to Louisiana State University. We are grateful to the foundation for its generosity and to Christy Oliver Reeves, its executive director, for her support. We would also like to thank Robert Newman, chairman of the economics department of LSU, for his efforts in making it possible to hold the conference at LSU. We are indebted to Mary Jo Neathery, an administrative assistant in the department, and Sarah Marx, Duha Altindag, and Colin Cannonier, all of whom are Ph.D. candidates in economics at LSU, for working tirelessly during the conference.

Each of the twelve chapters presented at the conference and contained in this volume benefited from the comments of a discussant. We would like to acknowledge and thank those discussants. Listed in the order in which the chapters they commented on appear, they are:

Kristin F. Butcher, Wellesley College and NBER

Alan C. Monheit, University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey and NBER

Michael Anderson, University of California at Berkeley

Dhaval Dave, Bentley College and NBER

Tinna Laufey Ásgeirsdóttir, University of Iceland

Susan L. Averett, Lafayette College

Barbara Schone, Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services

Kerry Anne McGeary, Ball State University and NBER

James Sallis, San Diego State University

Jeffrey DeSimone, University of Texas at Arlington and NBER

Roy Wada, University of Illinois at Chicago

Sara Markowitz, Emory University and NBER

The entire manuscript was read by two anonymous reviewers: one named by the NBER and one named by the University of Chicago Press. We are indebted to them for their many helpful comments. Finally, we wish to thank Helena Fitz-Patrick, coordinator of book publishing at the NBER, and David J. Pervin, senior editor at the University of Chicago Press, for editorial assistance.