
Contents

	Acknowledgments	ix
	Introduction	1
	Courtney C. Coile, Kevin Milligan, and David A. Wise
1.	Older Men's Labor Force Participation in Belgium	33
	Alain Jousten and Mathieu Lefebvre
2.	The Labor Force Participation of Older Men in Canada	51
	Kevin Milligan and Tammy Schirle
3.	From Early Retirement to Staying in the Job: Trend Reversal in the Danish Labor Market	67
	Paul Bingley, Nabanita Datta Gupta, and Peder J. Pedersen
4.	Explaining the Reversal in the Trend of Older Workers' Employment Rates: The Case of France	87
	Didier Blanchet, Antoine Bozio, Corinne Prost, and Muriel Roger
5.	Old-Age Labor Force Participation in Germany: What Explains the Trend Reversal among Older Men and the Steady Increase among Women?	117
	Axel Börsch-Supan and Irene Ferrari

6.	Employment at Older Ages: Evidence from Italy Agar Brugiavini, Giacomo Pasini, and Guglielmo Weber	147
7.	Labor Force Participation of the Elderly in Japan Takashi Oshio, Emiko Usui, and Satoshi Shimizutani	163
8.	Why Are People Working Longer in the Netherlands? Adriaan Kalwij, Arie Kapteyn, and Klaas de Vos	179
9.	Trends in Labor Force Participation of Older Workers in Spain Pilar García-Gómez, Sergi Jiménez-Martín, and Judit Vall Castelló	205
10.	The Recent Rise of Labor Force Participation of Older Workers in Sweden Lisa Laun and Mårten Palme	231
11.	Long-Run Trends in the Economic Activity of Older People in the United Kingdom James Banks, Carl Emmerson, and Gemma Tetlow	267
12.	Working Longer in the United States: Trends and Explanations Courtney C. Coile	299
	Contributors	325
	Author Index	329
	Subject Index	333