

Acknowledgments

- To Herbert Hill, for conversations in the fall of 1968 which prompted me to undertake this study;
- To Lawrence Graver of Williams College, for reading portions of the manuscript;
- To Trygve Tholfsen of Teachers College, Columbia University, for his grasp of the human limitations and practical realities of authorship;
- To the Faculty Research Fund of Teachers College, for a grant facilitating the initial purchase of books and materials;
- To the Center for Twentieth Century Studies of the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee, for its generous support during the fall of 1973;
- To Mrs. Marjorie Content Toomer, for permission to quote from the Jean Toomer papers housed at Fisk University;
- To my wife, Dorothea, who subsidized the enterprise in many ways;
- To Jennifer Crewe of the Columbia University Press, for giving Down Home a second life.