
Acknowledgments

I owe thanks to many people who supported me through the long process of writing this book. First, I thank my family. I could do nothing without their love and support. I also thank Robert Jervis and Page Fortna, the academic advisors who oversaw the earliest stages of this project. For their reading of my work, I thank Erica Chenoweth, Peter Krause, Severine Autesserre, Stuart Gottlieb, Austin Long, Robert Shapiro, Shuai Jin, Tanisha Fazal, Victor Asal, Luis Jimenez, Leila Farsakh, Paul Kowert, Michelle Jurkovich, Samuel Barkin, Jeffrey Pugh, Stacy VanDeveer, John Horgan, Max Abrahms, Friederike Kelle, and Costantino Pischedda.

I thank the political science departments at Columbia University and the University of Massachusetts Boston for providing institutional support. For their generous financial support, I thank the Horowitz Foundation for Social Policy and the Advanced Consortium on Cooperation, Conflict, and Complexity (AC4) at the Earth Institute at Columbia University. I also thank Professor Christopher Coker and the Department of International Relations at the London School of Economics and Political Science for hosting me as a guest researcher during my fieldwork in Ireland and Great Britain. I thank the MIT Security Studies seminar for their useful comments on my work.

I thank my research assistants for their help in producing the quantitative database for my research: Nidale Zouhir, Nathan Akin, Uluç Karakaş, Vaibhav Sabharwal, Osama Mohamed, Mallory Rosso, Vivian Grossman, Gi Jae Han, Addy Sonaike, Antoine Sander, Katie Garcia, David Ray Anderson, Fatima Dar, and Kangdi Li. I thank Matthew Eaton for his advice about statistical modeling, and Jon Lizarraga Díaz for his assistance in translating Basque interviews. I thank the many academics who assisted me in obtaining IRB approval for my research: Rebekka Friedman, Diego Navarro Bonilla, Zachariah Mampilly, Xabier Irujo, Roger Mac Ginty, Richard English, Neil DeVotta, Mark Whitaker, Roland Vazquez, and Zoe Bray.

I thank the Coiste na nIarchimí Republican ex-prisoners support group for making former IRA prisoners available for interviews. I also thank the Falls Road office of Sinn Féin, Northern Ireland Retired Police Officers Association (NIRPOA), Police Service of Northern Ireland, Northern Ireland Policing Board, Samaritans organization, Department of Justice of Northern Ireland, Irish Republican History Museum, Royal United Services Institute, and CAIN project at the University of Ulster. For their special assistance in Northern Ireland, I thank Seánna Walsh, Danny Morrison, Robert McClanahan, John O'Hagan, Eamon Mallie, William Mawhinney, Jonathan Blake, Joanne Murphy, Brendan Birt, Geraldine McAllister, Peter Gilleece, Kevin O'Brien, Jo Black, Leanne Donly, Tim Farrell, Patrick Thomson-McQuiston, Maura Scully, and Louise Quinn. For their assistance in Britain, I thank Jonathan Powell, Gordon Barrass, John Bew, Richard English, and Peter Neumann.

For their assistance with my research in Spain, I thank Antxon Etxebe-ste, the Guardia Civil, Urko Aiartza, the New York Euzko-Etxea, Brian Currin, Gorka Espiau, Paul Rios, Joseba Zulaika, and the Lokarri organization. For their assistance with my research in Sri Lanka, I thank M. A. Sumanthiran, Jayantha Dhanapala, Jayadeva Uyangoda, the British Tamils Forum, the Federation of Tamil Sangams of North America, Tamils Against Genocide, John Rogers and Ira Unamboowe of the American Institute for Sri Lankan Studies, Jehan Perera, and the National Peace Council of Sri Lanka. For their assistance with my research in Peru, I thank Maria Cruz-Saco, Salomón Lerner Febres, Ricardo Caro, Gustavo Gorriti, Paula Muñoz, Jean Franco Olivera, Maria Rae, Eduardo Toche, Talia Castro-Pozo, Cynthia Sanborn, Orieta Pérez, the Instituto de Democracia y Derechos Humanos, and the Centro de Información para la Memoria Colectiva y los Derechos Humanos.

Finally, I thank Caelyn Cobb and Bruce Hoffman at Columbia University Press for supporting this project and helping me bring my research to the public.

FORCE OF WORDS

