

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

THE AUTHOR is grateful to E. P. Dutton and Co. for permission to quote extensively from Rousseau's Social Contract and Discourses, translated by G. D. H. Cole, and from his Émile, translated by Barbara Foxley.

The author is also grateful to the following publishers for permission to quote: Thomas Nelson and Sons, for Rousseau's Considerations on the Government of Poland and Constitutional Project for Corsica, in Rousseau: Political Writings, translated by Frederick Watkins; St. Martin's Press and Macmillan and Co., for the fourth edition of Bernard Bosanquet's The Philosophical Theory of the State and his Psychology of the Moral Self; Librairie Gallimard, for Bernard Groethuysen's Jean-Jacques Rousseau; and The Beacon Press, for The Rise of Totalitarian Democracy, by J. L. Talmon.

The Political Quarterly has kindly permitted me to quote from A. D. Lindsay's article, "The State in Recent Political Theory," which appeared in the first number of that journal.

Finally, I wish to thank the Aristotelian Society for permission to quote from A. D. Lindsay's contribution to the symposium on "Purpose and Mechanism," published in Vol. XII of Proceedings of the Aristotelian Society.

J. W. C.

