

CONTENTS

PART I

PAGE

CAUSES OF THE BOXER REBELLION

Meaning of the Boxer Rebellion.	15
China and the world in past history	16
The Manchu conquest	17
China and Europe in the XVIth and XVIIth centuries	18
Results of the Opium war	20
Real significance of the Chino-Japanese war	25
Territorial aggressions of the Powers	26
Restraining influence of the Hay circular note of September, 1899.	37
Character of the Emperor Kuang Hsu.	40
Dismissal of Weng Tung-ho	42
Kang Yu-wei as Adviser	43
First reform decree of June 11, 1898	44
Further decrees.	46
Decree of September 5	49
The Coup d' Etat	54
Tzu Hsi's resumption of the regency	56
Reasons for failure of reform	56
Indifference of Powers to "Palace revolution"	59
Persecution of reformers	60
Policy of Empress Dowager	63
Reception to wives of diplomats	66
Health of Emperor	67
Resumption of regency by Tzu Hsi a vital cause of the Rebellion	69
Other immediate causes.	70
The missionary question.	72
The outbreak in Shantung.	76
Other outbreaks	82
Europe's failure to appreciate the situation.	84

PART II

THE INTERNATIONAL COMPLICATIONS OF THE BOXER REBELLION

Question of the Kangsu troops	89
First Legation guards	93
Second Legation guards	97
Attitude of Chinese Government towards the Boxers.	100
Imperial decrees concerning Boxers.	101
Distinction between "good and bad" societies	108
Instructions to Viceroys.	112
Arrival of foreign warships at Taku	113
Dynastic succession.	114
Attitude of the Yangtse Viceroys.	119
Policy of United States	125
Bombardment of Taku	128
A state of war existing?	130
Seymour expedition.	132
Capture of Tientsin	134
Second Allied army	135
Capture of Peking.	136

PART III

THE RESTORATION OF ORDER AND THE PEACE PROTOCOL OF SEPTEMBER 7, 1901

Letter of Emperor of China to President McKinley	139
Reply of the President	140
Letters to Europe and replies	142
Li Hung-chang appointed Commissioner	145
His proposed armistice	147
Prince Ching co-Plenipotentiary.	151
Their credentials	152
Renewal of punitive expeditions	155
Paotingfu.	155
Chuchow	157
Situation at Shanghai.	158
Proposed resumption of hostilities	161
Foreign extensions at Tientsin	164
Attitude of the United States	167
Occupation of Imperial Palace at Peking	173
Beginning of negotiations.	175
The German proposal for punishment	175
Replies of the Powers.	176

	PAGE
Edict of September 25 inadequate	180
The French proposals.	184
Acceptance by the Powers.	185
Bases of negotiations	187
The Joint Note.	189
Elaboration by Diplomatic Body at Peking	193
Further Imperial decrees	199
Final Protocol of September 7, 1901.	203

APPENDIX

I. THE JOINT NOTE	207
II. REPLY OF CHINESE PLENIPOTENTIARIES TO JOINT NOTE	211
III. FINAL PROTOCOL OF SEPTEMBER 7, 1901	213
BIBLIOGRAPHY	223
INDEX	235

