GLOBAL AMERICA

GLOBAL AMERICA

---

Edited by Jay Sexton and Sarah B. Snyder

Columbia University Press's Global America series pushes the history of U.S. foreign relations in new directions, sharpening and diversifying our understanding of the global dimensions of American history from the colonial era to the twenty-first century. Books in the series explore America's global encounters, including how external forces have shaped the development of the United States and vice versa; why American encounters with the wider world have produced volatility, ruptures, and crises; the shifting contours of U.S. power over time; and the impact of hierarchical attitudes regarding identity in shaping U.S. foreign relations. Taken together, the series analyzes the global history of the United States; its authors employ a diverse range of methodological, chronological, disciplinary, geographical, and ideological perspectives.

Rumi Yasutake, The Feminist Pacific: International Women's Networks in Hawai'i, 1820–1940

Robert B. Rakove, Days of Opportunity: The United States and Afghanistan Before the Soviet Invasion

M. Todd Bennett, Neither Confirm Nor Deny: How the Glomar Mission Shielded the CIA from Transparency
