

CONTENTS

Foreword by Fritz Stern vii

Introduction xi

- PART I A Legislation for the Past: Parliamentary and Administrative Junctures 1
1. The Amnesty Law of 1949 5
 2. The “Liquidation” of Denazification 27
 3. The Rehabilitation and Pensioning of the “131ers” 41
 4. The Amnesty Law of 1954 67
- PART II A Past-Political Obsession: The Problem of the War-Criminals 93
5. The War-Crimes Issue Preceding the Bonn Republic 97
 6. The Politicization of the War-Criminal Question (1949-50) 121

7. The Debate Under the Sign of Rearmament
(1950-51) 147
8. A “General Treaty” instead of a “General Amnesty”
(1951-52) 177
9. The Windup of the War-Criminal Problem 203

PART III Fixing Past-Political Limits: Judicial Norms and Allied
Intervention 235

10. The Hedler Affair and the Establishment of Criminal-
Legal Norms (1950) 237
11. The Rise and Banning of the Socialist Reich Party
(1951-52) 251
12. The Naumann Affair and the Role of the Allies
(1953) 277

Conclusion 303

Postscript to the American Edition 313

Acknowledgments 315

Notes 319

Sources and Literature 417

Index 461