

Contents

Preface	v
Introduction	3
I. Raw Fur Production and Marketing	9
II. Fur Manufacturing	32
III. Consumer Demand, Fur Retailing, and the Decline of Fur Sales	62
IV. Nonseasonal Fluctuations in the Fur Industry	83
V. Competitive Structure and Inter-Industry Competition	99
Recommendations	112
Appendices	119
Notes	149
Bibliography	159
Index	165

Tables

I.	Professions and Objectives of Colorado Fur Trappers	12
II.	Disposition of Fur Catch by Colorado Trappers	22
III.	Range of Wage Rates in Fur Manufacturing by Craft and Type of Fur	37
IV.	Typical Breakdown of Costs in Fur Manufacturing	45
V.	Changes in Fur Manufacturing Output and Number of Firms	50
VI.	Direction of Monthly Changes in Raw Fur Prices	60
VII.	Ownership of Fur Garments in Minneapolis-St. Paul, Meeker and Wright Counties, Minnesota, and Birmingham, Alabama	65
VIII.	Changes in Retail Sales of Fur and Other Commodities	71
IX.	Estimates of Retail Fur Sales per Thousand Dollars of Disposable Personal Income	75
X.	Percentage of Disposable Income Received by Upper Income Groups	76
XI.	Amplitude and Timing of Major Movements in the U. S. Fur Industry	86
XII.	Amplitude and Timing of Minor Movements in the U. S. Fur Industry	88

TABLES IN APPENDICES

1.	The Growth of the Fur Industry in the U. S.	122
2.	Production and Prices of Ranch Mink and Silver Fox	122
3.	Ranch Mink Production and Prices, by Type	123
4.	Leading Fur-Producing Countries and Estimated Value of Crop	123

TABLES

ix

5. U. S. Imports of Fur for Consumption	124
6. Indexes of U. S. Fur Imports, Value and Quantity	125
7. U. S. Exports of Fur and Manufactures	125
8. Percentage of Russian Fur Exports Sold at Auction, at Warehouse, and on Contract, Pre-War and Post-War	126
9. Sales, Profits, and Price per Share, A. Hollander and Son, Inc.	126
10. Income Statistics for Fur Manufacturing Corporations	127
11. Analysis of Consumer Purchases of Fur in Selected Cities	128
12. Distribution of Expenditures by Wives for Fur and All Clothing	131
13. Analysis of Demand for Furs, 1939	131
14. Fur Sales, Income, Urbanization, Climate and Income of Top One Percent of Families	132
15. Analysis of Demand for Furs, 1948	134
16. Fur Sales, Income, Urbanization, Climate and Percent of Families with Annual Income over $10,000	134
17. Per Capita Fur Sales as a Percentage of Per Capita Income, and Changes in Per Capita Fur Sales as a Percentage of Changes in Per Capita Income	136
18. Number of Manufacturers Producing Each Type of Fur in Selected Years	137
19. Changes in the Prices of Eighteen Furs	138
20. Average Family Personal Income after Federal Individual Income Tax Liability, for Quintiles and Top Five Percent of Consumer Units	138
21. Rates of Earnings in Various Occupations	139
22. Percent Increase in Population and Total Income Payments by Region	139
23. Retail Fur Sales in the U. S. by Region	140
24. Retail Fur Sales in the U. S. by Type of Retail Outlet	140
25. Amplitude of Fluctuation of Indexes of Fur Trade Activity during Major Movements	141

26.	Amplitude of Fluctuation of Indexes of Fur Trade Activity during Minor Movements	141
27.	Timing of Specific Series with Respect to the Overall Pattern of Change in the Fur Industry	142
28.	Cyclical Timing of Eight Leading Indicators and Fur Industry Activity	143
29.	Monopolistic Quality and Rate of Technological Progress of Thirteen Industries	143
30.	Monthly Indexes of Economic Activity in the Fur Industry	144

Figures

A. Fur Marketing Flow Chart	6
B. Short-Run Average Cost Curve in Fur Manufacturing	47
C. Profit and Profit Plus Officers' Compensation as a Percentage of Sales for Fur Manufacturing Corporations of Different Sizes	59
D. Scatter Diagram Showing Relation between Changes in Per Capita Income and Changes in Per Capita Fur Sales	66
E. Indexes of Retail Fur Sales (deflated), Personal Income, and Raw Fur Prices	68
F. Retail Fur Sales (deflated) and First Differences in Personal Income and Raw Fur Prices	70
G. Percentage of Series Expanding, Eight Leading Indicators and Fourteen Fur Series	95
H. Cumulative of Net Percentage of Series Undergoing Expansion, Eight Leading Indicators and Fourteen Fur Series	96

The Economics of the Fur Industry

