

Contents

Preface	ix
Note to Instructors	xv
Acknowledgments	xvii

PART I: Overview

1	Social Work Practice and Its Historical Traditions	5
2	The Ecological Perspective	54
3	The Life Model of Social Work Practice: An Overview	82
4	Culturally Competent and Diversity-Sensitive Practice and Cultural Humility	114
5	Assessment, Evidence-Guided Practice, and Practice Evaluation	143

Part II: The Helping Process in Life-Modeled Practice

Initial Phase

6	Preparation: Settings, Modalities, Methods, and Skills	177
7	Beginnings: Settings, Modalities, Methods, and Skills	217

Ongoing Phase

8	Helping Individuals, Families, and Groups with Stressful Life Transitions and Traumatic Events	258
9	Helping Individuals, Families, and Groups with Environmental Stressors	310
10	Helping Family Members with Maladaptive Communication and Relationship Patterns	365
11	Helping Group Members with Maladaptive Communication and Relationship Patterns	419
12	Helping with Maladaptive Relationship and Communication Patterns between Social Workers and Clients	469

Ending Phase

13	Endings: Settings, Modalities, Methods, and Skills	509
----	--	-----

Part III: Life-Modeled Practice at the Community, Organizational, and Political Levels

14	Influencing Community and Neighborhood Life	545
15	Influencing the Practitioner's Organization	581
16	Influencing Legislation, Regulations, and Electoral Politics	614

	Appendix A: Individual, Family, and Group Assessments	643
	Appendix B: Practice Monitoring—Records of Service	657
	Appendix C: Practice Monitoring—Critical Incidents	663
	Appendix D: Force Field Analysis	679
	Notes	683
	References	687
	Index	719