LIST OF TABLES	15
PART A—Strategic Tasks of Agricultural Mobilization
CHAPTER I
The Wartime Challenge to Economic Planning	19
1. Wartime Tasks of Agriculture	20
2. Measures of the Adequacy of Agricultural Mobilization	26
CHAPTER II
Food Shortages Abroad	31
1. The Impact of War on United Nations Food Supplies	31
2. Shortages in Allied Countries	34
United Kingdom	34
Soviet Union	36
China	39
3. Food Requirements of Liberated Areas	44
4. The Gap Between Needs and Supplies	49
United Nations Supplies and Requirements	50
Prospective Duration of Extraordinary Import Requirements	59
PART B—Agricultural Production in the United States
CHAPTER III
Agricultural Output	65
1. Immediate Wartime Production Tasks	65
2. Production Potentials	69
3. Production Results	75
Total Production	75
Crop Production	77
Livestock Production	80
4. The Gap Between Production Potentials and Results	82
CHAPTER IV
Utilization of Land Resources	87
1. Cropland Acreage	87
2. Output per Acre	91
3. Shifts in Land Use and the Relative Efficiency of Crops	96
4. Acreage Adjustment Potentials	102
5. Acreage Adjustment Goals	106
6. Actual Results Compared with Acreage Adjustment Goals	113
7. Acreage Adjustment Potentials, Goals and Results	120

CHAPTER V
Utilization of Livestock Resources	136
1. Livestock Mobilization Objectives	136
2. The Relative Efficiency of Livestock Enterprises	138
Livestock Versus Non-Livestock Enterprises	139
Comparative Efficiency of Livestock Adjustment Alternatives	144
3. Livestock Adjustment Potentials	147
4. Livestock Adjustment Goals	151
5. Livestock Adjustment Results	155
Aggregate Feed Supplies and Livestock Production	155
Adjustments in the Utilization of Livestock Production Resources	159
Changes in the Output of Livestock Products	162
6. Livestock Adjustment Potentials, Goals and Results	166
CHAPTER VI
Agricultural Manpower	174
1. Farm Labor Supply	174
2. Under-employment	179
3. Labor Cost of Inessential Crops	182
4. Efficiency of Work Methods	184
5. Farm Labor Mobilization Measures	187
To Minimize Withdrawals from the Farm Labor Force	187
To Maximize Additions to the Farm Labor Force	191
Redistribution of Available Farm Manpower	198
CHAPTER VII
Farm Machinery	202
1. Wartime Control Issues	203
2. Wartime Requirements Considerations	206
3. Farm Machinery Production Control Programs	210
4. Adequacy of Total Wartime Farm Machinery Supplies	216
5. Distribution of Farm Machinery	220
6. Under-utilization of Farm Machinery	224
7. Wartime Costs of Shortcomings in the Mobilization of Farm Machinery Resources	229
CHAPTER VIII
Fertilizers	241
1. The Fertilizer Situation Prior to the War	241
Fertilizer Consumption and Farm Income	243
Geographical Distribution	245
Consumption by Crops	248
2. The Wartime Supply of Fertilizers	250
Production and Consumption in Wartime	251
Nitrogen	253
Potash	256
Phosphorus	258
3. Redistribution of Fertilizer Supplies Among Crops	262
4. Wartime Adjustments in Regional Distribution	265

CHAPTER IX

Other Productive Resources	268
1. Agricultural Credit	268
Wartime Adjustments in Agricultural Credit Outstanding	269
Production Credit Needs and War Risks	271
War Production Credits for Small Farms	275
2. The Mobilization Apparatus	282
Administrative Organization in the Field	283
Horizontal Integration of Field Operations	285
Centralized Control and the Extension Service	287
Local Participation in Mobilization Programs	289
3. Summary Features of United States Agricultural Production	291

PART C—Distribution of United States Food Supplies

CHAPTER X

Sharing with Our Allies	297
1. The Allocation of United States Food Supplies	298
Allocations to Our Armed Forces	300
Allocations for Export	304
Division of United States Export Allocations Among Foreign Claimants	306
2. Foreign Contributions to the Food Supply of the United States	312
Food Exports of Other Friendly Nations	313
Development of Foreign Food Resources	314
3. The Control of Allocations	319
4. Joint Mobilization of United Nations Resources	324

CHAPTER XI

Domestic Civilian Consumption	327
1. Food Consumption Patterns	327
Average Consumption Levels	328
Differential Food Requirements and Consumption	335
2. The Adjustment of Civilian Supplies to War Needs	340
Food Fortification	340
Modification of the Content of Civilian Consumption	342
3. Consumption Goals and Agricultural Mobilization	345

CHAPTER XII

Food Distribution	349
1. From Farm to Retail	350
Gathering of Farm Products	350
Food Losses in Distribution	353
Utilization of Distribution Resources	358
Manpower in Distribution	364
Food Management Policies and Domestic Distribution	366
Distribution as an Integral Component of Food Mobilization	370
2. Food Rationing	373
The Introduction of Rationing	373

	PAGE
Rationing and Food Production	375
Rationing and Distribution	378
Rationing and Consumption	382
CHAPTER XIII
Price Policy, Inflation Control and Mobilization	386
1. Prices and Economic Stabilization	387
Returns to Farmers	388
Returns to Processors and Distributors	396
Food Costs and Consumer Incomes	401
The Threat to Economic Stabilization	404
2. Prices and Food Mobilization	412
Price Differentials and Conversion	413
Production Payments and Conversion	417
Other Incentives to Conversion	420
PART D—The Adequacy of Agricultural Mobilization
CHAPTER XIV
Food Shortage Expectations and Realities	427
1. Optimism in 1944	427
2. Inadequacy in 1945	432
Food Crisis Fears	433
Prospective Requirements and Supplies	436
Liberated Areas Aid Intentions and Results	445
3. The Resurgence of Optimism	450
CHAPTER XV
Aftermath	454
1. Food Crisis Again	455
2. Causes and Remedial Measures	465
3. Results and Future Prospects	478
PART E—Conflicting Pressures and Practical Economic Planning
CHAPTER XVI
Planning Objectives and the Role of Uncertainty	487
1. Mobilization Demands on Planning	489
2. Defining Mobilization Planning Objectives	492
3. The Role of Uncertainty in Planning	495
CHAPTER XVII
Planning and Extra-governmental Pressures	500
1. Farmers	500
Production Policies	500
Price Policies	505
Differences Among Farmers	507
2. Consumers	512
3. Other Private Interest Groups	515

CHAPTER XVIII

Planning and Intra-governmental Conflicts	521
1. Congress Versus the Executive Branch	521
2. Inter-agency Differences Within the Executive Branch	530
3. Competing Interests Within Executive Agencies	535

CHAPTER XIX

Some Requirements of More Effective Planning	544
1. Towards the More Effective Analysis of Needs for Planning Purposes	546
2. Towards the More Effective Analysis of Planning Potentials	550
3. Towards the More Effective Planning of Program Goals	556
4. Towards the More Effective Execution of Planned Programs	566
