

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION

1. Pragmatist Sociology: Histories and Possibilities 3

Isaac Ariail Reed, Neil Gross, and Christopher Winship

PART I: INQUIRY

2. What Sociologists Should Get Out of Pragmatism 33

John Levi Martin

3. Self-Reflection and Social Responsibility in Research:
Lessons from Early Pragmatist Historical Investigations 60

Daniel Huebner

4. Problem Situation Misassessment and the Financial Crisis 89

Luis Flores and Neil Gross

5. Pragmatism, Aesthetics, and Sociology 122

Daniel Silver

6. Disambiguating Dewey; or Why Pragmatist Action Theory
Neither Needs Nor Asks Paradigmatic Privilege 143

Josh Whitford

PART II: AGENCY

7. Problem-Solving in Action: A Peircean Account 171

Iddo Tavory and Stefan Timmermans

8. Projective and Responsive Creativity Among
On-Demand Workers 186

Mazen Elfakhani

9. Words Versus Actions in the Network Behavior of Low-Income African Americans 210

Mario Small, Cayce C. Hughes, Vontrese D. Pamphile, and Jeffrey N. Parker

10. Scientific Innovation as Environed Social Learning 231

Natalie B. Aviles

11. Why Do Biologists and Chemists Do Safety Differently?
The Reproduction of Cultural Variation Through Pragmatic Regulation 256

Susan Silbey

PART III: DEMOCRACY

12. Accidental Discovery and the Pragmatist Theory of Action:
The Emergence of a Boston Police and Black
Ministers Partnership 307

Christopher Winship

13. Pragmatist Comparative-Historical Sociology 336

Isaac Ariail Reed and Paul Lichterman

14. American Pragmatism and the Dilemma of the Negro 364

Karida L. Brown and Luna Vincent

15. The Public Arena: A Pragmatist Concept of the Public Sphere 377

Daniel Cefaï

16. Finding the Future in Pragmatist Thought:
Imagination, Teleologies, and Public Deliberation 406

Ann Mische

Index 433

The New Pragmatist Sociology

