

CONTENTS

Foreword Axel Honneth vii

Translator's Introduction Frederick Neuhouser xi

Preface and Acknowledgments xix

PART 1 THE RELATION OF RELATIONLESSNESS: RECONSTRUCTING A CONCEPT OF SOCIAL PHILOSOPHY

1. "A Stranger in the World That He Himself Has Made":
The Concept and Phenomenon of Alienation 3
2. Marx and Heidegger: Two Versions of Alienation Critique 11
3. The Structure and Problems of Alienation Critique 22
4. Having Oneself at One's Command:
Reconstructing the Concept of Alienation 32

PART 2 LIVING ONE'S LIFE AS AN ALIEN LIFE: FOUR CASES

5. Seinesgleichen Geschieht or "The Like of It Now Happens":
The Feeling of Powerlessness and the Independent Existence of One's Own Actions 51
6. "A Pale, Incomplete, Strange, Artificial Man":
Social Roles and the Loss of Authenticity 68
7. "She but Not Herself": Self-Alienation as Internal Division 99
8. "As If Through a Wall of Glass": Indifference and Self-Alienation 131

PART 3 ALIENATION AS A DISTURBED APPROPRIATION OF SELF AND WORLD

9. “Like a Structure of Cotton Candy”: Being Oneself as Self-Appropriation 155
  10. “Living One’s Own Life”: Self-Determination, Self-Realization, and Authenticity 199
- Conclusion: The Sociality of the Self, the Sociality of Freedom 216
- Notes* 221
Works Cited 251
Index 261