

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I owe an enormous debt to many individuals who helped me greatly in this endeavor. My family deserves special mention for their patience, encouragement, and perseverance. So do Professors Fox and Puchala, who graciously rendered their invaluable insight and assistance without any obligation to do so. Professor Hilsman also served me well with his timely and encouraging comments on my drafts. This study benefited mightily from the consummate dedication and assistance of my advisor, Professor Schilling, who deserves much of the credit and none of the blame for this book.

Special thanks go likewise to Mike Franc, Mr. James J. Dowd, and Professor Douglas MacDonald for reading and commenting insightfully on the drafts of this study, to Kathy Firth for typing it, to the Firth family for enduring my demands on Kathy's time so patiently, to E. Susan Magill, the housefrau, for the countless and uncompensated hours she spent xeroxing and mailing this manuscript.

Equally, I am indebted to the diligent and helpful research personnel at the Library of Congress, the National Archives, and the Washington Navy Yard. In this regard, Dr. Dean Allard and Martha Crawley deserve special mention. So does the great Dr. Mondou.
