

CONTENTS

CHAPTER I

PAGE

THE GENERAL ORGANIZATION OF THE CENTRAL, THE PROVINCIAL AND THE LOCAL GOVERNMENTS IN CHINA BEFORE AND AFTER 1912, WITH SPECIAL EMPHASIS ON THEIR FISCAL FEATURES

A. Before 1912:

1. General Organization of the Central Government;

a. Before Reorganization:

| | |
|--|----|
| 1. The emperor..... | 16 |
| 2. The Grand Council of State (5 members) | 16 |
| 3. The Grand Secretariat (4 members)..... | 17 |
| 4. The six boards | 17 |
| 5. The Board of Revenue: | |
| a. Two Presidents and Four Vice-Presidents | 18 |
| b. The fourteen departments | 18 |
| c. Other offices and bureaus | 21 |
| d. Summary | 22 |
| 6. Other organs—censorate | 22 |

b. After reorganization:

| | |
|---|----|
| 1. Effects of foreign contact, 1842, 1860, 1895, 1900 | 23 |
| 2. Reorganization of 1906: | |
| a. Other boards | 24 |
| b. The Board of Finance (10 bureaus and 8 offices and the Commission of Customs Control) | 25 |
| 3. Reorganization of 1911—cabinet | 28 |
| 4. Conclusion | 29 |

2. General Organization of the Provincial and the Local Governments:

| | |
|---|----|
| a. Governor-General and Governor (10 bureaus) | 31 |
| b. Six departments | 31 |
| c. Provincial Treasurer or Civil Commissioner (functions) | 32 |
| d. Grain Commissioner | 33 |
| e. Minor civil divisions: | |
| 1. The circuit | 33 |
| 2. The prefecture | 34 |
| 3. The independent departments, etc. | 35 |

| | PAGE |
|--|------|
| 4. The district—most important political unit | 36 |
| 5. Subdivisions of district (Sze, Hsiang, and village) | 36 |
| f. Conclusion | 38 |
| B. After 1912: | |
| 1. General Organization of the Central Government: | |
| a. Cabinet system—ministerial responsibility | 38 |
| b. The Ministry of Finance: | |
| 1. Powers of the Minister of Finance | 39 |
| 2. The five bureaus | 40 |
| 2. General Organization of the Provincial and the Local Governments: | |
| a. Dual chief executive—military and civil—functions | 42 |
| b. Organization of Civil Governor's office (5 bureaus) | 42 |
| c. Three independent commissioners responsible to the Central Government—Commissioner of Finance | 43 |
| d. Tao-yun (three bureaus) | 43 |
| e. District magistrate (three bureaus), functions | 44 |

CHAPTER II

THE PAST AND PRESENT FISCAL RELATIONS BETWEEN THE CENTRAL, THE PROVINCIAL AND THE LOCAL GOVERNMENTS

| | |
|---|----|
| A. The Past Fiscal Relations: | |
| 1. The provincial tributes in kind | 46 |
| 2. The provincial contributions in cash: | |
| a. To the Court of Imperial Household | 48 |
| b. To the Board of War | 48 |
| c. To the Board of Revenue | 49 |
| d. To defray central administrative expenses of different boards, courts, offices, bureaus, etc. | 50 |
| e. To meet indemnity payments | 50 |
| f. To meet foreign debt charges | 51 |
| 3. Inter-provincial aids under the command of the emperor | 51 |
| 4. Summary and criticism. | 55 |
| B. The Recent Fiscal Relations: | |
| 1. Remnants of the old system | 60 |
| 2. Minor changes effected—centralization | 64 |
| 3. The Experimental Local Self-Government Act | 65 |
| 4. Absence of municipal indebtedness | 66 |
| 5. Central control over provincial loans: | |
| a. Over domestic loans—nil | 67 |
| b. Over foreign loans: | |
| 1. Political ground for control | 67 |
| 2. Fiscal ground for control | 67 |
| 3. Administrative ground for control | 68 |

CHAPTER III

ATTEMPTS TO SEPARATE LOCAL FINANCE FROM NATIONAL FINANCE

A. Attempts before 1912:

1. Financial reforms in the program for a nine-years preparation for the adoption of a constitution..... 70
2. Establishment of the Committee for the Reorganization of the Finances of the Empire—12 subcommittees—reports—opinions on separation of revenue 70
3. The budget of 1910—separation of local and central expenses..... 72

B. Attempts after 1912:

1. The proposal of Mr. T. C. Cheng to separate local finance from national finance..... 72
2. Appointment of a Special Committee of Investigation to consider Mr. Cheng's proposal—its recommendations 73
3. Attempts to carry out the committee recommendations..... 74
4. Revenue Separation Bill of 1913—provisions 75
5. Revenue Separation Bill of 1913—execution 79
6. Tentative separation of expenditures in 1913 80
7. Why attempts have failed 82
8. Movement for federation of self-governing provinces:
 - a. Adoption and proclamation of two provincial constitutions 85
 - b. Constitutional movement in other provinces 88
 - c. Local self-government in Kuangtung—budget of Canton..... 88
9. Conclusion 91

CHAPTER IV

THE SYSTEMS OF NATIONAL AND LOCAL FINANCE OF THE LEADING COUNTRIES AND WHAT CAN CHINA LEARN FROM THEM

A. Central and Local Finance in France:

1. Administrative bureaucracy 92
2. Both administrative and legislative control of local finances..... 95
3. System of additional centimes 96
4. Departmental and communal sources of revenue 97
5. National court of accounts—auditing of local accounts..... 100
6. Caisse d'Amortissement et des dépôts et Consignations..... 101
7. Control of local indebtedness..... 102

B. Central and Local Finance in Japan:

1. Administrative bureaucracy..... 103
2. Additional rates on national taxes..... 105
3. Local taxes 105
4. Central subventions and local contributions..... 106
5. Legal limit on additional rates 107
6. Central control of local indebtedness 107

| | PAGE |
|--|------|
| C. Central and Local Finance in Germany : | |
| 1. Administrative bureaucracy | 107 |
| 2. Old system of separation of revenue : | |
| a. Imperial revenue (matricular contributions and assignments)... .. | 108 |
| b. Prussia—local administration | 109 |
| c. Prussia—separation of revenue | 112 |
| d. Prussia—subvention for roads | 112 |
| e. Prussia—control of local indebtedness | 112 |
| f. Prussia—audit of local accounts | 113 |
| 3. New system of unification of revenue (since 1919) | 114 |
| D. American National and Local Finance : | |
| 1. Federation and local self-government | 117 |
| 2. Separation of revenue between nation and states | 117 |
| 3. Introduction of federal grants-in-aid | 119 |
| 4. Partial separation of revenue between state and localities | 122 |
| E. English National and Local Finance : | |
| 1. Local self-government | 124 |
| 2. Grants-in-aid to secure central control of local finances and other matters | 126 |
| 3. Practically no separation of revenue between nation and localities .. | 127 |
| 4. Central audit of local accounts | 128 |
| 5. Central control of local indebtedness | 129 |
| F. Conclusion—What can China learn from each of the above five systems of national and local finance?..... | 129 |

CHAPTER V

SOME FUNDAMENTAL RECOMMENDATIONS FOR THE POLITICAL READJUSTMENT BETWEEN THE CENTRAL, THE PROVINCIAL AND THE LOCAL GOVERNMENTS

| | |
|--|-----|
| A. Granting of Provincial and Local Self-Government in the National Constitution ; | |
| 1. Federation of provinces—desirability and possibility, arguments for and against | 134 |
| 2. Provincial and local self-government is desirable and should be the goal of the political life of any nation or people (six reasons) | 135 |
| 3. Provincial and local self-government is the only alternative for China's political reorganization—nation too extended—devolution tendency in England and France. | 138 |
| 4. Village self-government should be extended as a means of political education. | 142 |
| 5. Provincial and local politics should be made attractive in order to avoid the crowding of the cream of the nation in Peking or elsewhere | 142 |

| | PAGE |
|--|------|
| 6. Political division of labor should be observed | 143 |
| B. The unit of the local governing-bodies should be three-fold only | 144 |
| C. Provinces to formulate their own constitutions, to charter cities, and to enact general local government acts | 144 |
| D. Provincial Government Board and Local Government Board as advisory organs | 145 |
| E. Popular election of important political officers and rigid civil service laws for provinces and localities | 146 |
| F. Theory and practice. | 147 |

CHAPTER VI

SOME FUNDAMENTAL RECOMMENDATIONS FOR THE FISCAL READJUSTMENT BETWEEN THE CENTRAL, THE PROVINCIAL AND THE LOCAL GOVERNMENTS

| | |
|--|-----|
| A. Separation of revenue is necessary for the efficient working of the provincial and the local self-government..... | 150 |
| B. Complete separation of sources of revenue between the Central and the Provincial Governments: | |
| 1. All indirect taxes, national in scope and character, should be national taxes. | 151 |
| 2. Business taxes and other direct taxes to be provincial | 152 |
| 3. Administration of income and inheritance taxes by the Central Government | 153 |
| 4. Land tax should be a provincial and local tax: | |
| a. Self-governing provinces and localities need it wholly | 156 |
| b. It is more suited to be a local tax | 157 |
| c. Provincial and local governments are more competent in administering the tax, because of familiarity with the local conditions. | 158 |
| 5. Title-deeds tax to be provincial | 158 |
| 6. Recapitulation | 158 |
| C. Partial separation of sources of revenue between the Provincial and the Local Governments: | |
| 1. Exclusive local taxes and other exclusive sources of local revenue... | 160 |
| 2. Exclusive provincial taxes and other exclusive sources of provincial revenue | 160 |
| 3. The land, the income, and the inheritance taxes to be held in common. | 161 |
| 4. Grants-in-aid. | |
| a. National—two reasons for its adoption in China..... | 162 |
| b. Provincial—same reasons | 163 |
| c. Basis for determining the amount of grants-in-aid | 163 |
| d. General principles to govern grants-in-aid | 164 |

| | PAGE |
|--|------|
| D. Constitutional, legislative, and semi-administrative controls of provincial and local finances: | |
| 1. Control of provincial finances by national constitution | 165 |
| 2. Control of local finances by provincial constitution. | 166 |
| 3. Board of Provincial Finances..... | 166 |
| 4. Board of Local Finances..... | 167 |
| 5. Control of local finances by provincial legislatures..... | 168 |
| E. Theory and practice (four obstacles) | 170 |

CHAPTER VII

FISCAL RELATIONS BETWEEN THE LEASED TERRITORIES, THE FOREIGN SETTLEMENTS AND THE CENTRAL GOVERNMENT

| | |
|---|-----|
| A. The leased territories: | |
| 1. A brief history | 172 |
| 2. Their fiscal relations with the Central Government at Peking—China receives no rent and has no power of taxation therein | 173 |
| B. The "Concessions" or "Settlements": | |
| 1. Their significance..... | 173 |
| 2. China has no right of taxation or of tariff fixing therein..... | 174 |
| 3. The protest of the Treaty Powers against the stamp tax on the bills of lading, etc., in 1914 | 174 |
| C. China's attempt to resume full sovereignty; the result of the Washington Conference, 1921-1922..... | 175 |
| APPENDICES | 177 |
| BIBLIOGRAPHY | 182 |