

CONTENTS

Foreword by Chen Guying vii

Preface ix

Introduction: A Joker in the Fold i

1. Sincerity, Authenticity, and Ancient Chinese Philosophy 19

The Dialectic of Sincerity and Confucian Ethics 19

Authenticity, Irony, and Daoism 30

On the Ascription of Authenticity to the Zhuangzi 34

2. The Confucian Regime of Sincerity 41

The Rectification of Names, “Dual Correspondence,” and Role Model Ethics 41

The Fear of Insincerity and the Moral Ontology of Sincerity 49

Alternative Readings of Confucianism and a Preliminary

Conclusion 53

3. Philosophical Humor and Incongruity in the Zhuangzi	59
Toward a Daoist Theory of Humor	60
Parodies and Tricksters in the Zhuangzi	76
The Incongruity of Names and Forms	113
4. Smooth Operators: The Arts of Genuine Pretending	123
From Dissonant to Empty Role Models	124
Zhenren: The Zhenuine Pretender in the Zhuangzi	126
Social Survival	138
Drunk Skills: On Contingent Excellence	151
Where We Come From: On Rambling and the Art of Philosophizing	164
Sanity and Health: Immune to Afflictions and Conceit	171
Conclusion	181
Notes	189
Bibliography	195
Index	211