

CONTENTS

Preface ix

Acknowledgments xv

Part I: Crisis i

1. The Capitalist Unconscious: The Korea Question 3

2. The Aesthetics of Democratic Politics:
Labor, Violence, and Repetition 35

Part II: Reparation 71

3. Reparation: On Colonial Returnee 73

4. Socialist Reparation: On Living Labor 104

5. Chinese Revolution in Repetition: The Minority Question 144

Part III: Peace and Human Rights 181

6. Korean Unification as Capitalist Hegemony 183

7. North Korean Revolution in Repetition: Crisis and Value 218

8. Spectacle of T'albuk: Freedom and Free Labor 250

Conclusion 287

Notes 297

Bibliography 307

Index 339

