

CONTENTS

FOREWORD BY DIXON RYAN FOX	v
INTRODUCTION	3
I. BUSINESS, GOOD AND BAD	5
Agriculture; Commerce; Merchants, bankers, and lawyers; Commercial critics of the governmental system; Mechanics and tradesmen; Manufacturers; Conditions immediately following the Revolution: Economic results of enemy occupation and evacuation, Decline of credit, Extravagance and luxuries from abroad, Speculation in western lands, Speculation in securities and produce; Depression: Price movements, Debt and insol- vency, The black year (1786), Position of the farmer; Lift- ing of the depression at the end of the critical period
II. THE SOCIAL BACKGROUND	30
Population in 1783; Racial characteristics; Religious char- acteristic; Cultural institutions: Schools, Publication, Theaters; Humanitarian strivings; Social instability; Democratic sim- plicity
III. THE LAND	44
Land system in state politics; Prevalence of the great estate in New York; Dutch and English land policies; Location and size of the estates: Manors, Patented estates, Small holdings; Character of manors and patents: Quitrents, The manor dis- tinguished from the patented estate, Feudal characteristics, Van Rensselaer and Livingston Manors, Westchester manors; Effect of the Revolution upon the manors
IV. THE POLITICS OF THE LANDLORDS	71
Federalist and Antifederalist landowners; Power of the land- lord in politics; Influence of the Revolutionary spirit; Antag- onism between landlord and tenant; Antirent war of the nineteenth century; Federalism of the aristocratic landlord
V. POLITICS	84
Colonial background; Revolutionary period; Constitution of 1777: Constitutional convention and its work, Sectionalism in the convention, Restriction of the franchise, Conservative char- acter of the constitution; Election of George Clinton as governor: Character of Clinton, Victory for the Democrats; Clintonian era in New York politics: Appearance of party groupings, Criticisms of the Clinton régime, Political appointees in politics, Law and order, Mechanics' incorporation and political conservatism, Saint Tammany's Society, Federalist activities in 1786, Legislature of 1787, Controversy over the seat of state government, George Clinton's hold on his state

VI. THE LION'S PAW 115

Evacuation; Patriot grievances and Anglophobia; New York and the Treaty of 1783; Problem of the loyalists: Location and character of the loyalist elements, War-time persecution of the loyalists, Emigration of the loyalists, Condition of the loyalists after the treaty, Tory issue in politics, Rutgers v. Waddington, Conciliatory policies (1786-1787), Politics of the loyalists in 1788; Effect of British occupation of the western posts upon New York; Effect of British discrimination against American commerce upon New York

VII. THE CURRENCY 139

Confused currency; Bank of New York; Demand for paper money: Drain of specie from the state, War-time issues of paper money, Failure of the paper-money men (1781-1786), Paper issue of 1786, Effect of Shays's Rebellion upon New York, Relation of paper money to the ratification of the Constitution

VIII. THE STATE IMPOST 153

Its relation to the ratification of the Constitution; Quarrels with Connecticut and New Jersey, and their relation to ratification

IX. NEW YORK AND THE CONGRESS 160

State jealousy of congressional powers; State representation in Congress; Cession of the western land claims; Congress in New York State; Congressional defense of the frontier; Congressional requisitions; Sectional opposition to Federal requisitions; Struggle over granting the impost: Grant of 1781, Restricted grant of 1783, Years of Clintonian opposition, Sectionalism, Governor's refusal to call a special session (1786), Federalist failure in 1787; Relation of these problems to the Federal Constitution

X. THE DRIFT TOWARD UNION 183

New York and the Annapolis Convention; Rise of sentiment favoring a stronger union; New York and the Philadelphia Convention: Action by Congress, Choice of the New York delegates, Instructions to the delegates, Withdrawal of Yates

CONTENTS

xiii

and Lansing from Philadelphia, Contributions of Hamilton to the Convention

XI. THE CONSTITUTION BEFORE THE STATE 192

Attitude of the New York delegates to Congress; Attitude of the state in the early spring (1788); Delay in summoning the state convention; Calling the convention: Legislative resolution, Provision for manhood suffrage in the election of delegates, Problem of apportionment

XII. THE CAMPAIGN 205

Opposition of the governor; Flood of controversial literature: The Federalist; Contentions and characteristics of the parties: Federalist arguments, Property and class distinctions in politics, Clintonian position, Summary of party characteristics; Tactics of the rival forces; Balloting for delegates to the state convention: Victory for the Antifederalists

XIII. THE EMBATTLED STATESMEN OF POUGHKEEPSIE 222

Delegates from the Antifederalist counties; Delegates from the Federalist counties

XIV. THE TRIUMPH OF THE CONSTITUTION 249

Position of the parties; The debates; Factors that favored the Federalists: Fear of the loss of commerce, Danger of secession of the southern counties, Accession of New Hampshire to the Constitution, Failure of the Virginia Antifederalists to cooperate with New York, Partiality of the mails to the Federalists; Progressive retreat of the Clintonians: Antifederal decision to accept amendments, Proposed amendments and a bill of rights, Madison's advice, Ratification "in full confidence"; The circular letter and the second convention movement; Influence of the Federal capital; Prestige of George Clinton after 1788; The passing of Antifederalism

MAPS 277

APPENDIX (LIST OF DELEGATES TO THE POUGHKEEPSIE CONVENTION) 283

BIBLIOGRAPHY 289

INDEX 317

