

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

CRESCENT OVER ANOTHER HORIZON is a collaborative volume in which multiple efforts have coalesced. A research and dissemination grant from the Social Science Research Council (SSRC)–Carnegie Foundation provided the opportunity to help formulate this volume more than three years ago. Its funding of a project to disseminate information about Islam in Latin America together with the support of the Latin American and Caribbean Center (LACC) at Florida International University (FIU) in 2009–2010 were instrumental in providing the editors and some of the contributors to this volume the opportunity to meet and share the results of their research on different occasions. The project built on an informal network of scholars from Latin American and US institutions and aimed at sharing and popularizing their cutting-edge work beyond academic circles. The editors want to thank Tom Asher and the team at the SSRC for their support in yet another intellectual endeavor. John Stack, director of the School of International and Public Affairs; Cristina Eguizabal, then director of LACC at FIU; and Mohiaddin Mesbahi, then director of the Middle East Studies Center at FIU, have been avid supporters of this project since its inception.

However, as Evelyn Alsultany and Ella Shohat have acknowledged in Between the Middle East and the Americas: The Cultural Politics of Diaspora, this project “was probably in the making long before we actually” started it. The editors met more than ten years ago for the first time in Niteroi, Brazil, on the occasion of the opening of the Center for Middle Eastern Studies at the Universidade Federal Fluminense. Paul Amar and Paulo Gabriel Hilu da Rocha Pinto were then two young scholars who set the ground for many years of intellectual collaborations to come, including this volume.

The editors are particularly indebted to the staff of the University of Texas Press and particularly senior editor Jim Burr for their continuous support and encouragement in making this volume possible. Likewise, the editors want to thank all scholars in this volume, as this project would not have been possible without their contributions. We also wish to thank Hanna AlShaikh for her editing of an earlier draft. Last, but not least, we have dedicated this volume to Muslims in the Americas, many of whom have had the generosity to let researchers enter their lives. We all sincerely hope they feel satisfied with the analyses and representations contained in these pages.

THIS PAGE INTENTIONALLY LEFT BLANK

CRESCENT OVER ANOTHER HORIZON

THIS PAGE INTENTIONALLY LEFT BLANK