

Contents

List of Abbreviations vii

INTRODUCTION. “The Most Interesting Animals in the World”: Reconstructing Histories of Andean Camelids in Transoceanic Contact Zones	1
CHAPTER 1. From Marvelous Antidote to the Poison of Idolatry: The Transatlantic Significance of Andean Bezoar Stones during the Late Sixteenth and Early Seventeenth Centuries	25
CHAPTER 2. Exploring the Body-Interior: Autopsy in Colonial Camelid Contact Zones	57
CHAPTER 3. From Curiosity to Commodity: Early Efforts to Ship Living Camelids to Europe	89
CHAPTER 4. The Science of Acclimatization: Llamas and Alpacas in Nineteenth-Century France	125
CHAPTER 5. Andean Itineraries of Nineteenth-Century Camelid Science: The Case of Charles Ledger	165
CHAPTER 6. Camelids in Australia: The Rise and Fall of Charles Ledger’s Alpaca Ambitions	207
CHAPTER 7. US Camelid Contact Zones in the Twentieth Century: Authenticity, Exoticism, and Celebrity	257
CONCLUSION. The Afterlives of Camelid Contact Zones	285
Acknowledgments	291
Notes	297
Works Cited	335
Index	363

