ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

One of the most pleasant aspects of finishing a book is having the opportunity to thank those who helped make it possible. This study was undertaken at the suggestion of Thomas F. McGann, to whom I owe a profound debt of gratitude. My deep appreciation also goes to Nettie Lee Benson, Donald D. Brand, Karl M. Schmitt, Stanley E. Hilton, Louis R. Sadler, and Jack McGrew, who read portions of the manuscript and provided valuable criticism. Research in Mexico was made possible by an NDEA-Fulbright-Hays grant. Lic. Juan Sánchez Navarro, Lic. Carlos Sánchez Navarro, Doña Blanca Villar Villamil de Sánchez Navarro, and Doña Luz Sánchez Navarro de Mac Gregor graciously facilitated my research on their distinguished family. The directors and staffs of the Latin American Collection at the University of Texas, the Archivo General de la Nación, the National Archives, the Huntington Library, the Archivo General del Estado de Coahuila, and the Archivo General del Estado de Nuevo León were extremely helpful. To my wife goes my gratitude for reasons that she knows best.
