

Acknowledgments

Thanks first and foremost to Cherríe Moraga for her work and permission to quote from it. I would also like to acknowledge Theresa May of the University of Texas Press and Deena González, series editor, for their patience, and Deena in particular for her useful comments on the manuscript. I am deeply grateful that Lora Romero took the time to read it and give me her insights. I am indebted to Alicia Schmidt-Camacho for many inspiring conversations and valuable editing suggestions. To the students of my 1995 Stanford seminar on Race, Gender, and Nation for their challenging discussions of The Last Generation, and to Estelle Freedman for inviting me to present the chapter on The Last Generation in the 1995 Feminist Studies colloquia series: thank you. I am grateful to my colleagues Rudy Busto and Paula Moya for their input on the chapters on Heroes and Saints and “Waiting in the Wings,” respectively. Undergraduate research assistant Celina Ramírez helped with typing revisions and library work. Special thanks to graduate assistants Karina Hodoyán and Raúl Coronado, Jr., whose participation was crucial in the final stages of completing the manuscript, and for Raúl's careful reading of and astute comments on chapter 5. I am forever thankful to Eleanor Soto, who supported me in many ways throughout this process.