

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction	I
PART I: THE REVOLUTION IN REPRESENTATION
Prologue. A Parable: The Revolution in Theatrical Representation	17
1. Embodiment: Concrete Re-presentation in Premodern France	29
2. A New Political Aesthetic: Public Opinion and the Birth of the Modern Political Audience	52
Entr'acte. Public Opinion and the Theater	81
3. The Resurrection and Refashioning of the Estates General	91
4. Praxis: The Birth of the National Assembly and the Death of the Binding Mandate	124
PART II: REPRESENTATION IN THE REVOLUTION
5. Métissage : The Merging of Theater and Politics in Revolutionary France	167
6. Theater Critics: Reactions to Actors on the Political Stage	197
7. The Fear and Ridicule of Revolutionary Representations	228
8. Breaching the Fourth Wall: Spectators Storm the Stage, Actors Invade the Audience	258
Conclusion	295
Notes	301
Index	343

