Thank you to everyone who has assisted with the completion of this work. I would particularly like to thank the school of Arts, English and Languages at Queen's University Belfast, whose support has been invaluable in giving me the time and the financial assistance to carry out the archival research.

I would also like to thank the archivists who made this work possible by answering questions, replying to emails, copying and sending material and supporting my in-person visits. My thanks to staff at the South West Heritage Trust; Highland Archive Centre, Inverness; Sheffield City Archives; Tyne & Wear Archives and Museums; Jersey Archive; West Yorkshire Archive Service Kirklees; West Yorkshire Archive Service, Wakefield; West Yorkshire Archive Services, Bradford; Coventry Archives; West Sussex Record Office; Bolton Archives; Surrey History Centre; Cumbria Archive and Local Studies Centre, Whitehaven; Hampshire Archives and Local Studies; East Sussex and Brighton and Hove Record Office at The Keep; Glamorgan Archives; Berkshire County Archives; BFI Special Collections; Wiltshire and Swindon History Centre; the Women's Library at the London School of Economics; Gloucestershire Records; London Metropolitan Archive; the National Archives; Aberdeen City & Aberdeenshire Archives; Portsmouth City Archives; Public Records Office Northern Ireland; the Mitchell Library and Archives, Glasgow; Cornwall Record Office, Devon Heritage Centre/North Devon Record Office; East Riding Archives; and the British Board of Film Classification.

Thank you to everyone who gave feedback on early parts of this work and offered encouragement at every turn. Thanks particularly to fabulous colleagues and collaborators Kate Egan, Aimee Mollaghan, Kat Flint-Nicol, Cathy Johnson and Kim Akass. I could not have completed this without you all.

And finally thanks to my family; for Paul, Owen and Cerys, with all my love.
