

Acknowledgements

Although the work contained in this book is my own, as are any errors or omissions, every project rests upon the support and help of others, and I would like to express my gratitude here. Firstly, I would like to thank my colleagues in the English department of the University of Chester for their support, where I was allocated study leave to enable progress on this book. I would also like to thank the staff at the libraries at the Universities of Liverpool and Chester for their help in sourcing documents. Friends and colleagues, and their relevant Departments, hosted conferences and seminar papers at which earlier versions of this material was delivered, at the following institutions: the University of Chester, Edge Hill College, Goldsmith's College, University of London, the University of Greenwich and Lancaster University.

Personal thanks must go to the following friends and colleagues for their help and encouragement: Arthur Bradley, Robert Bond, Jenny Bavidge, Paul Newland, Boris Vidovic, Keith Wilson (University of Ottawa), Daniel Lea, Eliot Atkins, Sebastian Groes, and Ed and Sarah for late London nights. Special thanks must go to Alan Wall, who read some of these chapters and made many excellent suggestions, and to Simon Lee, who set me on this road in the first place. I owe a considerable debt of gratitude to Matthew Frost and the editorial team at Manchester University Press for their benign forbearance. Finally, my love and thanks go to Deniz, who put up with all this for far too long.

