EDPB statement of 7 April 2022 on Trans-Atlantic Data Privacy Framework

Articles

Michael Bäuerle – Legal Requirements for Algorithmically Prepared Decisions in the Field of Internal Security – European framework and legal situation in Germany

The article first briefly examines the previously incomplete framework of EU law for algorithmically prepared decisions in the area of internal security (II.), in order to then consider in depth the national framework in Germany (III.). It is then examined to what extent the regulation of artificial intelligence planned at EU level could compensate for the previous supranational regulatory deficit (IV.). 33

John Beardwood – RevRec, ASC 606 and IFRS 15: A Briefing on Changes to the Revenue Recognition Regime and their Impact on Technology Agreements

In light of the ASC 606 that became fully applicable in 2020 this article explains the importance of revenue recognition for technology vendors and the impact of ASC 606 on customer-vendor technology agreement negotiations. 40
