

Contents

Introduction: Beyond Words
Frank Liedtke and Cornelia Schulze 1

Section I. General concepts

Short introduction (Frank Liedtke) 11

1. Communication in the narrower and broader sense.
A reconstruction in terms of Sign Theory
Rudi Keller 15

2. Pragmatics in Optimality Theory
Reinhard Blutner 33

Section II. Acquiring inferential abilities

Short introduction (Cornelia Schulze) 61

3. Word learning by exclusion - pragmatics, logic and processing
Susanne Grassmann 67

4. Children’s knowledge of scales in the acquisition of almost
Patricia Amaral 91

5. Relevance inferences in young children: 3-year-olds’ understand a speaker’s indirectly expressed social intention
Cornelia Schulze 109

6. Early pragmatics with words
Nausicaa Pouscoulous 121

Section III. Grammar, meaning, and enrichment

Short introduction (Frank Liedtke)	147
7. Procedures and prosody: Weak encoding and weak communication Billy Clark	151
8. Pragmatic templates and free enrichment Frank Liedtke	183
9. Pragmatic enrichment in adjectival passives: The case of the post state reading Helga Gese	207
10. Pragmatic inferencing and expert knowledge Petra B. Schumacher and Jörg Meibauer	231

Section IV. Constraints, memes, and constructions

Short introduction (Frank Liedtke)	249
11. Empirical and theoretical evidence for a model of quantifier production Chris Cummins and Napoleon Katsos	253
12. Construction as memes – Interactional function as cultural convention beyond the words Elke Diedrichsen	283
13. A pragmatic Pandora's box: Regularities and defaults in pragmatics Marco Mazzone	307

Contributors to the volume	331
---	-----

Index	335
------------------------	-----