Preface — XV

1 Whether there can be providence at all? — 1

- 1.1 Arguments Contra — 1
 - 1.1.1 First argument — 1
 - 1.1.2 Second argument — 1
 - 1.1.3 Third argument — 1
- 1.2 Argument Pro — 2
- 1.3 Proposed Answer — 2
 - 1.3.1 Definition of ‘providence’ — 2
 - 1.3.2 Possibility of Providence — 3
 - 1.3.3 Remark on terminology — 3
 - 1.3.4 Result of chapter 1 — 5
- 1.4 Answer to the Objections — 5
 - 1.4.1 (to 1.1.1) — 5
 - 1.4.2 (to 1.1.2) — 6
 - 1.4.3 (to 1.1.3) — 7

2 Whether providence can be attributed to God? — 8

- 2.1 Arguments Contra — 8
 - 2.1.1 First argument — 8
 - 2.1.2 Second argument — 8
- 2.2 Argument Pro — 8
- 2.3 Proposed Answer — 9
 - 2.3.1 Result of chapter 2 — 10
- 2.4 Answer to the Objections — 11
 - 2.4.1 (to 2.1.1) — 11
 - 2.4.2 (to 2.1.2) — 11

3 Whether providence is concerned with creation? — 13

- 3.1 Arguments Contra — 13
 - 3.1.1 First argument — 13
 - 3.1.2 Second argument — 13
 - 3.1.3 Third argument — 13
- 3.2 Argument Pro — 14
- 3.3 Proposed Answer — 14
 - 3.3.1 Result of chapter 3 — 15

3.4 Answer to the Objections — 15

3.4.1 (to 3.1.1) — 15

3.4.2 (to 3.1.2) — 15

3.4.3 (to 3.1.3) — 16

4 Whether there is order in the change of things? — 17

4.1 Arguments Contra — 17

4.1.1 First argument — 17

4.1.2 Second argument — 17

4.2 Argument Pro — 17

4.3 Proposed Answer — 18

4.3.1 Change by movement — 18

4.3.2 Thermodynamic change — 21

4.3.3 Quantum-mechanical change — 24

4.3.4 Result of chapter 4 — 26

4.4 Answer to the Objections — 26

4.4.1 (to 4.1.1) — 26

4.4.2 (to 4.1.2) — 27

4.5 Conclusion — 29

5 Whether there is teleological order in non-living things? — 31

5.1 Arguments Contra — 31

5.1.1 First argument — 31

5.1.2 Second argument — 31

5.2 Argument Pro — 31

5.3 Proposed Answer — 32

5.3.1 Things and systems — 32

5.3.2 Change and reversibility — 34

5.3.3 Order — 36

5.3.4 Becoming — 39

5.3.5 Teleological order — 41

5.3.6 Values and goals in non-living systems — 42

5.3.7 Result of chapter 5 — 43

5.4 Answer to the Objections — 44

5.4.1 (to 5.1.1) — 44

5.4.2 (to 5.1.2) — 44

5.5 Conclusion — 45

6	Whether there is chance and randomness in non-living things? — 46
6.1	Arguments Contra — 46
6.1.1	First argument — 46
6.1.2	Second argument — 46
6.1.3	Third argument — 46
6.2	Argument Pro — 47
6.3	Proposed Answer — 47
6.3.1	Extreme positions — 48
6.3.2	Randomness in arithmetic and geometry — 50
6.3.3	Kinds of chance and randomness concerning dynamical laws of nature — 52
6.3.4	Kinds of chance and randomness concerning statistical laws of nature — 54
6.3.5	Complexity and randomness of sequences — 56
6.3.6	Kinds of chance and randomness w.r.t. structure and order — 58
6.3.7	Kinds of chance and randomness w.r.t. teleological order — 59
6.3.8	Results of chapter 6 — 60
6.4	Answer to the Objections — 60
6.4.1	(to 6.1.1) — 60
6.4.2	(to 6.1.2) — 61
6.4.3	(to 6.1.3) — 61
7	Whether there is teleological order in living things? — 62
7.1	Arguments Contra — 62
7.1.1	First argument — 62
7.1.2	Second argument — 62
7.2	Arguments Pro — 63
7.2.1	First argument — 63
7.2.2	Second argument — 63
7.3	Proposed Answer — 63
7.3.1	Living system (Biosystem) — 64
7.3.2	Order and teleological order in living systems — 65
7.3.3	Values in living systems — 66
7.3.3.1	Primary, secondary and basic good of a living system — 66
7.3.3.2	Goods and values — 67
7.3.4	Values concerning the history of l_s — 68

7.3.5	Higher-level teleological order —	69
7.3.6	Higher human values —	70
7.3.6.1	Different kinds of higher values —	70
7.3.6.2	Values and norms —	71
7.3.7	Projected teleological order —	72
7.3.8	Result of chapter 7 —	73
7.4	Answer to the Objections —	74
7.4.1	(to 7.1.1) —	74
7.4.2	(to 7.1.2) —	75
7.5	Conclusion —	77

8 Whether there is chance and randomness in living things? — 78

8.1	Arguments Contra —	78
8.1.1	First argument —	78
8.1.2	Second argument —	78
8.2	Argument Pro —	79
8.3	Proposed Answer —	79
8.3.1	The question of randomness of the DNA-sequence —	80
8.3.2	The question of randomness and chance in the emergence of the DNA-sequence —	81
8.3.3	The question of the randomness of mutation —	84
8.3.4	Randomness and chance in the emergence of higher-level biological systems —	86
8.3.5	Randomness concerning the Hardy-Weinberg equilibrium —	86
8.3.6	Chance and randomness concerning goals and teleological order —	87
8.3.7	Conclusion concerning chance and randomness —	88
8.3.8	Results of chapter 8 —	89
8.4	Answer to the Objections —	90
8.4.1	(to 8.1.1) —	90
8.4.2	(to 8.1.2) —	90

9 Whether providence is compatible with both order and chance? — 94

9.1	Arguments Contra —	94
9.1.1	First argument —	94
9.1.2	Second argument —	94
9.1.3	Third argument —	95

9.1.4	Fourth argument —	95
9.1.5	Fifth argument —	95
9.2	Argument Pro —	96
9.3	Proposed Answer —	96
9.3.1	Providence is compatible with any kind of order which is realized in the universe —	96
9.3.2	Providence is compatible with any kind of chance which is realized in the universe —	100
9.3.3	Result of chapter 9 —	102
9.4	Answer to the Objections —	103
9.4.1	(to 9.1.1) —	103
9.4.2	(to 9.1.2) —	103
9.4.3	(to 9.1.3) —	104
9.4.4	(to 9.1.4) —	104
9.4.5	(to 9.1.5) —	104

10 Whether everything that happens comes under God's providence — 106

10.1	Arguments Contra —	106
10.1.1	First argument —	106
10.1.2	Second argument —	106
10.1.3	Third argument —	107
10.1.4	Fourth argument —	107
10.1.5	Fifth argument —	107
10.2	Argument Pro —	108
10.3	Proposed Answer —	108
10.3.1	Definition of 'providence' —	108
10.3.2	Omnitemporal and temporal states of affairs (Df 10.1 (b)) —	110
10.3.3	Both states of affairs, those which hold for all times and those which hold for some time, come under God's providence —	112
10.3.4	Result of chapter 10 —	114
10.4	Answer to the Objections —	115
10.4.1	(to 10.1.1) —	115
10.4.2	(to 10.1.2) —	116
10.4.3	(to 10.1.3) —	116
10.4.4	(to 10.1.4 and 10.1.5) —	117

11	Whether everything that comes under God's providence is known by God — 118
11.1	Arguments Contra — 118
11.1.1	First argument — 118
11.1.2	Second argument — 118
11.2	Argument Pro — 120
11.3	Proposed Answer — 120
11.3.1	Does God know all laws and constants of the universe? — 121
11.3.2	Does God know all states, events, processes and initial conditions in the universe? — 122
11.3.3	God's knowledge of contingent future events — 124
11.3.4	Results of chapter 11 — 126
11.4	Answer to the Objections — 126
11.4.1	(to 11.1.1) — 126
11.4.2	(to 11.1.2) — 127
12	Whether everything that comes under God's providence is willed or permitted by God — 129
12.1	Arguments Contra — 129
12.1.1	First argument — 129
12.1.2	Second argument — 129
12.2	Argument Pro — 130
12.3	Proposed Answer — 130
12.3.1	God permits order and teleological order — 130
12.3.2	God is not all-willing — 132
12.3.3	God's will is always fulfilled — 132
12.3.4	God wills order and teleological order — 134
12.3.5	God wills and permits chance and randomness — 135
12.3.6	Result of chapter 12 — 136
12.4	Answer to the Objections — 137
12.4.1	(to 12.1.1 and 12.1.2) — 137
13	Whether everything that comes under God's providence is caused by God or by creatures — 141
13.1	Arguments Contra — 141
13.1.1	First argument — 141
13.1.2	Second argument — 141
13.1.3	Third argument — 142
13.1.4	Fourth argument — 142

13.2	Argument Pro —	142
13.3	Proposed Answer —	143
13.3.1	The universe as a whole —	143
13.3.2	The universe of order and chance —	144
13.3.3	Self-organization —	145
13.3.4	Natural selection —	146
13.3.5	Development —	147
13.3.6	Evolution —	149
13.3.7	Transition from species A to variation A' —	151
13.3.8	Transition from species A to species B —	152
13.3.9	Heredity —	154
13.3.10	What cannot be caused by creatures (internal causes of the universe) on principal grounds must be caused by God and his providence —	157
13.3.10.1	Leibniz's answer —	158
13.3.10.2	Can the laws or theories of physics be complete? —	160
13.3.11	Result of chapter 13 —	163
13.4	Answer to the Objections —	165
13.4.1	(to 13.1.1) —	165
13.4.2	(to 13.1.2) —	165
13.4.3	(to 13.1.3) Everlasting universe —	166
13.4.4	(to 13.1.4) Self-contained universe —	168
14	Whether everything that comes under God's providence is directed to some goal or integrated into a network of goals —	174
14.1	Arguments Contra —	174
14.1.1	First argument —	174
14.1.2	Second argument —	174
14.1.3	Third argument —	174
14.2	Argument Pro —	175
14.3	Proposed Answer —	175
14.3.1	Are biological processes teleological? —	176
14.3.2	Are non-biological processes teleological? —	178
14.3.3	Can all living systems be integrated into a network of goals extrinsic to the living system? —	179
14.3.4	Can all non-living systems be integrated into a network of goals? —	183
14.3.5	Can all obtaining states of affairs be integrated into a network of goals? —	185
14.3.5.1	Carbon-based life —	186

- 14.3.5.2 Evolutionarily stable strategy — 187
- 14.3.5.3 Queen Elizabeth I's goal — 187
- 14.3.5.4 Children's understanding of goals — 189
- 14.3.6 Functional explanation — 191
- 14.3.7 Reasons for integration into a network of goals — 191
- 14.3.8 Result of chapter 14 — 195
- 14.4 Answer to the Objections — 196
- 14.4.1 (to 14.1.1) — 196
- 14.4.2 (to 14.1.2) — 197
- 14.4.3 (to 14.1.3) — 197

15 Whether nature's order and God's providence are compatible with free will — 200

- 15.1 Arguments Contra — 200
 - 15.1.1 First argument — 200
 - 15.1.2 Second argument — 200
 - 15.1.3 Third argument — 200
 - 15.1.4 Fourth argument — 201
 - 15.1.5 Fifth argument — 201
 - 15.1.6 Sixth argument — 201
- 15.2 Argument Pro — 202
- 15.3 Proposed Answer — 202
 - 15.3.1 Determinism and indeterminism — 203
 - 15.3.2 Confusions concerning determinism, causality and prediction — 205
 - 15.3.3 Attacks on men's free will decision: Neuronal Determinism — 208
 - 15.3.4 Degrees of freedom on different levels — 212
 - 15.3.5 Definition of free will and of free will decision — 216
 - 15.3.5.1 Presuppositions of free will — 216
 - 15.3.5.2 Definition of 'free will' — 218
 - 15.3.5.3 Definition of 'free will decision' — 223
 - 15.3.6 Compatibility of nature's order and free will — 224
 - 15.3.7 Compatibility of providence and free will — 225
 - 15.3.7.1 God's knowledge and free will — 226
 - 15.3.7.2 Men's free will and God's will or permission — 227
 - 15.3.7.3 Men's free will and the causation by God or by creatures — 228
 - 15.3.7.4 Men's free will and the direction to some goal — 230
 - 15.3.8 Conclusion — 230

15.3.9	Result of chapter 15 —	231
15.4	Answer to the Objections —	232
15.4.1	(to 15.1.1) —	232
15.4.2	(to 15.1.2) —	232
15.4.3	(to 15.1.3) —	233
15.4.4	(to 15.1.4) —	233
15.4.5	(to 15.1.5) —	233
15.4.6	(to 15.1.6) —	234
16	Whether God's providence is compatible with evil —	236
16.1	Arguments Contra —	236
16.1.1	First argument —	236
16.1.2	Second argument —	236
16.1.3	Third argument —	236
16.1.4	Fourth argument —	236
16.1.5	Fifth argument —	237
16.1.6	Sixth argument —	237
16.2	Arguments Pro —	237
16.2.1	First argument —	237
16.2.2	Second argument —	237
16.3	Proposed Answer —	238
16.3.1	Is there evil at all? —	238
16.3.2	The "relativity" of evil —	239
16.3.2.1	Three general types of evil —	241
16.3.2.2	Commentary to the "relativity" of evil —	242
16.3.2.3	Privatio boni ? —	246
16.3.3	Specific types of evil —	247
16.3.3.1	Basic evil —	247
16.3.3.2	Necessary evil —	248
16.3.3.3	Higher evil, legitimate and illegitimate —	248
16.3.3.4	Moral evil —	250
16.3.4	Is providence compatible with the specific types of evil? —	251
16.3.5	God's providence is not incompatible with moral evil —	253
16.3.6	God's providence is not incompatible with legitimate higher evil —	254
16.3.7	Is God's providence compatible with necessary evil ? —	259

16.3.8	Is God's providence compatible with evil that is beyond human control? —	260
16.3.9	Three further possible explanations —	264
16.4	Answer to the Objections —	267
16.4.1	(to 16.1.1) —	267
16.4.2	(to 16.1.2) —	267
16.4.3	(to 16.1.3) —	268
16.4.4	(to 16.1.4) Good accompanied by evil —	268
16.4.5	(to 16.1.5) —	271
16.4.6	(to 16.1.6) —	271
