

Contents

References, Citations and Abbreviations — IX

João Constâncio and Maria João Mayer Branco

‘As the Spider Spins’: Introduction — 1

I. On Metaphor and the Limits of Language

Céline Denat

“To Speak in Images”: The Status of Rhetoric and Metaphor in Nietzsche’s New Language — 13

Luís Sousa

Knowledge, Truth, and the Thing-in-itself: The Presence of Schopenhauer’s Transcendental Idealism in Nietzsche’s On Truth and Lie in an Extra-Moral Sense (1873) — 39

Luis Enrique de Santiago Guervós

Physiology and Language in Friedrich Nietzsche: “The Guiding Thread of the Body” — 63

II. On Language, Emotion, and Morality

Andrea Bertino

Discovering Moral Aspects of the Philosophical Discourse About Language and Consciousness With Nietzsche, Humboldt, and Levinas — 91

Tom Bailey

Vulnerabilities of Agency: Kant and Nietzsche on Political Community — 107

Chiara Piazzesi

What We Talk About When We Talk About Emotions. Nietzsche’s Critique of Moral Language as the Shaping of a New Ethical Paradigm — 129

III. On Language, Self-Expression, and Consciousness

Jaanus Sooväli

The Absence and the Other. Nietzsche and Derrida Against Husserl — 161

Luca Lupo

Drives, Instincts, Language, and Consciousness in Daybreak 119: ‘Erleben und Erdichten’ — 179

João Constâncio

Consciousness, Communication, and Self-Expression. Towards an Interpretation of Aphorism 354 of Nietzsche’s The Gay Science — 197

Maria João Mayer Branco

The Spinning of Masks. Nietzsche’s Praise of Language — 233

IV. On Language, Self-Expression, and Style

Bartholomew Ryan

The Rise and Fall of Zarathustra’s Star — 257

Maria Cristina Fornari

‘And so I Will Tell Myself the Story of my Life’. Nietzsche in His Last Letters (1885–1889) — 281

Contributors — 297

Complete Bibliography — 298

Name Index — 307

Subject Index — 309