

Contents

1 Introduction — 1

- 1.1 Paul's Jewish identity — 3
- 1.2 The vocational dimension of Jewish identity — 9
- 1.3 Romans: An exercise in Jewish vocation — 15
- 1.4 Preview of the argument — 19

2 Review of literature — 22

- 2.1 Paul's apostolic mission and Israel's vocation — 22
 - 2.1.1 "Patterns of religion" approaches — 22
 - 2.1.2 Albert Schweitzer — 25
 - 2.1.3 Johannes Munck — 26
 - 2.1.4 Krister Stendahl — 27
 - 2.1.5 Karl-Wilhelm Niebuhr — 28
 - 2.1.6 Stanley Stowers — 29
 - 2.1.7 James Dunn — 31
 - 2.1.8 N. T. Wright — 32
 - 2.1.9 Terence Donaldson — 35
- 2.2 Related issues — 36
 - 2.2.1 The relationship between Jewish identity and Christ-believing identity — 36
 - 2.2.2 The debate over Jewish "mission" — 40
- 2.3 Summary — 43

3 Paul's language of Jewish identity — 44

- 3.1 Jewish distinctiveness — 45
 - 3.1.1 "Jew" and "circumcision": Terms of Jewish distinctiveness — 45
 - 3.1.2 Common objections to the notion of Jewish distinctiveness in Paul — 47
 - 3.1.2.1 Gentiles as the "seed of Abraham"? — 48
 - 3.1.2.2 An inclusive use of "Israel" in Rom 9–11? — 48
 - 3.1.2.3 Paul's definition of "Israel" in terms of God's "call" (Rom 9:6b–13) — 49
 - 3.1.2.4 The metaphor of the olive tree (Rom 11:17–24) — 51
 - 3.1.2.5 "We are the circumcision" (Phil 3:3) — 53
 - 3.1.2.6 The "Israel of God" (Gal 6:16) — 55
 - 3.1.2.7 Christians as "spiritual" Jews? (Rom 2:28–29) — 61
 - 3.1.3 An ethnic distinctiveness — 61
 - 3.1.4 A theological distinctiveness — 64

3.2	Jewish identity and divine revelation —	67
3.2.1	Jewish identity and the Law of Moses —	68
3.2.2	“Israelites” and divine revelation —	73
3.2.3	“Hebrews” and divine revelation —	76
3.3	Jewish identity and divine vocation —	78
3.3.1	The Law of Moses: A basis for Jewish vocation —	78
3.3.2	Abraham’s fatherhood / seed: A paradigm for Jewish vocation —	82
3.3.2.1	In Paul’s letters —	82
3.3.2.2	In Paul’s Jewish context —	84
3.3.3	“Judaism” / “zeal”: Paul’s former expression of Jewish vocation —	89
3.3.4	Paul’s opposition to alternative expressions of Jewish vocation —	93
3.4	Summary: Paul’s language of Jewish identity —	94
4	The Jewishness of Paul’s vocation (Romans 1:1–15 & 15:14–33) —	96
4.1	Paul and the Isaianic Servant —	99
4.1.1	Paul’s identification with the Isaianic Servant: Evidence —	100
4.1.2	Paul’s identification with the Isaianic Servant: Common objections —	104
4.1.2.1	Δοῦλος: A term of humility? —	104
4.1.2.2	Δοῦλος: A common term for believers? —	107
4.1.2.3	Δοῦλος: An economic or political allusion? —	109
4.1.3	Paul’s identification with the Isaianic Servant: Significance —	111
4.2	Paul and Israel’s priesthood —	112
4.2.1	Paul’s consecration —	112
4.2.2	Paul’s priestly ministry —	114
4.3	Paul and contemporary expressions of Jewish vocation —	119
4.3.1	“Proselytism”? —	121
4.3.2	Accommodation? —	126
4.3.3	Apologetics? —	127
4.3.4	Israel as a global priesthood? —	129
4.3.5	Eschatological expectations —	130
4.3.6	Apparent anomalies —	135
4.4	Summary: Paul’s fulfilment of Israel’s eschatological vocation —	137
5	Paul’s contest over Jewish identity (Romans 2:17–29) —	140
5.1	Romans 2:17–29 as an argument about Jewish identity —	140

5.1.1	The discrete function of Rom 2:17–29 within the argument of Romans — 144
5.1.2	The social context of Rom 2:17–29: the Jewish synagogue — 147
5.1.3	The unity of Rom 2:17–29 — 151
5.2	Jewish identity and the Law (Romans 2:17–20) — 152
5.2.1	The Law and Jewish privilege (Rom 2:17–18) — 153
5.2.2	The Law and Jewish vocation (Rom 2:19–20) — 156
5.2.2.1	Jewish Law and the teaching of Gentiles — 156
5.2.2.2	The identity of Paul's interlocutor — 161
5.3	Jewish identity deconstructed (Romans 2:21–27) — 163
5.3.1	The failure of Law-teaching (Rom 2:21–24) — 163
5.3.1.1	Jewish transgression of the Law (vv. 21–22) — 164
5.3.1.2	The failure of Jewish vocation to the nations (vv. 23–24) — 168
5.3.2	The failure of circumcision (Rom 2:25–27) — 170
5.3.2.1	A commonly held truth (v. 25) — 174
5.3.2.2	A contested issue (v. 26) — 176
5.3.2.3	The radical consequences (v. 27) — 180
5.4	Jewish identity redefined (Romans 2:28–29) — 181
5.4.1	Jewish identity: Not in the mainstream synagogue — 184
5.4.2	Jewish identity: Within the Christ-believing community — 185
5.4.3	Jewish honour: Not from people, but from God — 189
5.5	Summary: Paul's contest over Jewish identity — 191
6	Paul's fulfilment of Israel's vocation (Romans 9–11) — 195
6.1	Paul's vocation: The framework for Romans 9–11 — 195
6.1.1	The prominence of Paul's persona in Rom 9–11 — 196
6.1.2	Tensions concerning Israel's vocation in Rom 9–11 — 198
6.1.3	Paul's first-person resolution of these tensions — 200
6.2	Paul and Israel: Conflicting vocations (Romans 9:1–5) — 202
6.2.1	The apostolic identification with Israel (Rom 9:1–3) — 203
6.2.2	Israel's purpose in light of the apostolic vocation (Rom 9:4–5) — 206
6.3	Paul and Israel: Competing vocations (Romans 10) — 210
6.3.1	Israel's failed vocation (Rom 10:1–4) — 212
6.3.2	The apostolic preaching vocation (Rom 10:5–13) — 216
6.3.3	The apostolic fulfilment of Israel's vocation (Rom 10:14–18) — 220
6.3.4	The ongoing failure of Israel's vocation (Rom 10:19–21) — 228
6.4	Paul and Israel: Converging vocations (Romans 11) — 230
6.4.1	The apostle as the paradigmatic Israelite (Rom 11:1–2a) — 231

6.4.1.1	The inadequacy of alternative proposals —	232
6.4.1.2	Paul's self-description and Israel's vocation —	235
6.4.2	The apostle against Israel (Rom 11:2b–10) —	239
6.4.3	The apostle and Israel: Complementary vocations (Rom 11:11 – 14) —	240
6.4.4	The apostle and Israel: Corresponding vocations (Rom 11:15 – 16) —	244
6.4.5	The apostle's vocation and Israel's salvation —	244
6.5	Summary: Paul's fulfilment of Israel's vocation in Romans 9 – 11 —	246

7 Conclusions — 248

7.1	Summary of the argument —	249
7.2	Implications for further study —	252

Bibliography — 255

Index of Ancient Texts — 278

Index of Modern Authors — 301