Article processing charges

To sustain the publication of our fully peer-reviewed open access journal, each article accepted for publication in the Journal of Laboratory Medicine is subject to an APC of € 1,000, and € 500 for authors whose corresponding author is member of DGKL or ÖGLMKC. Invited papers are fully discounted. There are no submission charges.

The fee is used to cover the costs of professional typesetting, and copyediting, as well as online hosting, long-term preservation, abstracting and indexing and promotion to potential readers.

Editorial independence

Editors and Reviewers are not involved in the payment of authors and do not discuss costs with authors. The ability to pay has no influence on whether a manuscript is accepted for publication.

Payment process

We have partnered with RightsLink (provided by the Copyright Clearance Center) to organize the payments of APCs. Payment can be made in EUR, USD or GBP, and may be subject to VAT. Publication fees are due upon acceptance of the article. An APC payment link will be sent to the corresponding author upon acceptance of the article. Please note that the publication can only take place once payment has been received.

Funding support and waiver policies

We firmly believe that the quality of articles, and not an author's financial capacity, should be the decisive factor for journals to publish. The lack of funding should not be a barrier to publishing with us. Within our fully gold APC journal portfolio, we offer the following support for authors:

- Discounts and waivers for authors affiliated with institutions that have an agreement with the Publisher
- Discount and waivers for authors coming from low or lower-middle income countries
- Discretionary discounts and waivers on a case-by-case basis
